Introduction to Volume Two

In the summer of 2016, I reached the conclusion that it would be impossible to fulfill my grandiose intentions for Volume 2. Fortunately having a manufacturing background I decided that it would be better to create some sort of useful product than an unworkable fantasy. I also decided that I would use modern information technology and take advantages of resources which were not available in the 1990s.

Therefore I decided that I would examine all the 100 branches of the family tree and do the following:

1. Ensure that all family members who were murdered in the Holocaust were remembered by a page of testimony at Yad VaShem.

Yad VaShem, the Israeli Holocaust Museum is situated just outside Jerusalem. After I published the first Volume one I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for 60 family members. Over the years, other family victims have received testimonies from family or friends. I have now added an additional forty new names to this very important documentation which is now on-line. I used the Yad VaShem website extensively in this research.

2. Establish the connection between the old Urspringen family and the families that escaped the Holocaust.

To do this I used my subscription to the Ancestry Genealogy website to the full. I at least attempted to find out how family members left Germany before 1933, or escaped the ever more terrifying experience of Nazi Germany from 1933 onwards. Fortunately much of the data relating to ships entering the United States has been scanned and put on-line as have the censuses up to 1940. I also am a donor to the Jewish genealogy site JewishGen where I keep the family tree up-to date. Because of the connections between Ancestry and JewishGen much information on Bavarian Jews and Wurzburg Jewry was available. The records of Bavarian military conscriptions for WW1were also invaluable they provided accurate birthdates for active and home guard soldiers. Very accurate documentation was also found in the US Social Security Death Index. However there were family members who reached the USA but no documentation has been found.

3. Recognize lost connections.

It appears that some family branches just died out in Germany. There are also large gaps when family members emigrated from Germany to countries outside the US. The UK in general did not publish information about passengers reaching the UK or immigration details. Similarly for the countries in South America. The British Mandate also published virtually no data regarding the many legal German Jew reaching British mandated Palestine and as for the illegal immigrants there is no record anywhere. In the past twenty years, lost members of the family have found me and we have reestablished family ties. I hope this will continue in the future. Completely lost connections are noted by the sequence "Search. End of search".

All this I was able to accomplish from the peace of my study without writing a single letter, making a single phone call or having to wait six weeks for a document.

Personal Opinions

The German-Jewish Syndrome

There is no doubt that until 1933 most German Jews considered that they were part of the Great German Nation and that this nation possessed the greatest culture ever. There is a case for this feeling given the impressive achievements of German philosophy, science, medicine, literature, music, architecture, and cinema. This resulted in feelings of superiority, certainly regarding other Jews. The only Jews in Europe who had a reasonable chance to escape the Nazis were the German Jews in the period between 1933 and 1939 and even 1940. However many German Jews, having discarded their historical instincts, went to their terrible deaths in a state of complete denial.

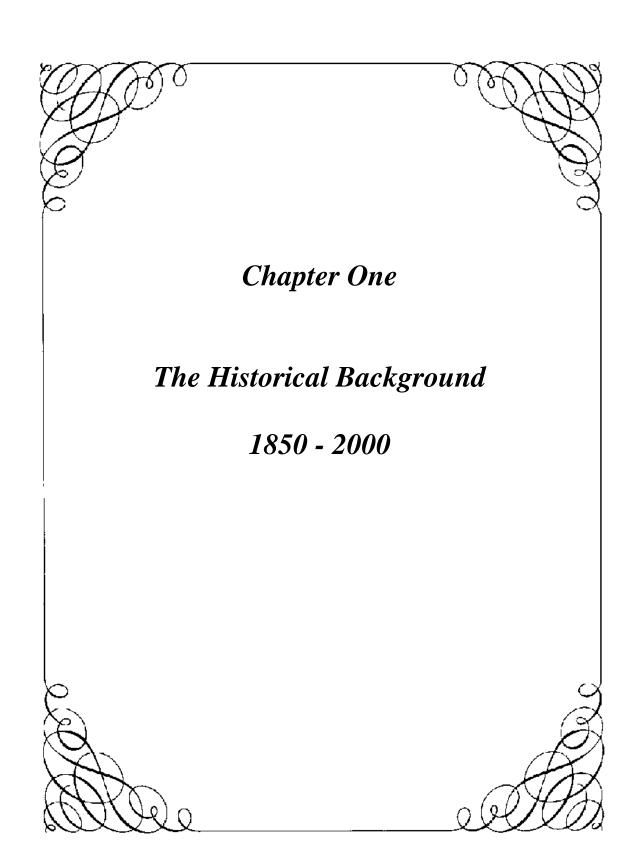

Assimilation and Intermarriage

Without getting involved with philosophical discussions on History and Objectivity, or History and Ideology, I, possessing no academic historical training, have tried to give an honest, fair account of the facts that I uncovered or were transmitted to me. However from the age of thirteen, when I read Cecil Roth's famous book on the subject, I have been passionate regarding the History of the Jewish People, concerned for its future, and my Aliya from England to Israel was part of my personal commitment. From my standpoint, the low birthrate, the increasing rate of intermarriage and the reduction of Jewish content and knowledge especially in the Diaspora is a tragedy. Two recent books "Vanishing Diaspora: The Jews in Europe since 1945" by Bernard Wasserstein, Harvard University Press, 1997 and "The Vanishing American Jew" by Alan Dershowitz describe these trends while the latter attempts, unconvincingly, to provide a solution.

On the other hand, I am not a judge - I even consider myself to be liberal - and feel no need to criticize those who have taken other paths. Many family members who opted out were the most wonderful people.

As I am not a committee, that has to decide whether or not to include or exclude material, based on universal principles etc., and as this book is my own ego-trip anyway I decided that when Jewishness in its widest interpretation ceased for a particular branch, I would state this and not carry on with their story or genealogy.

Jewish Life in Germany (1850 -1940)

This topic is well documented on the Internet and by books such as "The Pity of It All" by Amos Elon or "Jews in Germany: From Roman Times to the Weimar Republic" by Nachum Tim Gidal.

The Frankel and Dillenberger families, being Bavarian rural families were in some ways more conservative than the great and assimilated Prussian Jewish families. I submit a few notes that are relevant to the Frankel family.

Seligman Baer (Isaac Dov) Bamberger (from Wikipedia)

The most influential voice of Orthodox Jewish moderation in Bavaria was that of the local Rabbi Seligman Baer (Isaac Dov) Bamberger (born Wiesenbronn, near Kitzingen, Bavaria, 6 November 1807; died Wurzburg 13 October 1878) a noted Talmudist and a leader of Orthodox Judaism in Germany. Between 1840 and his death he served as rabbi of Würzburg, and is therefore often referred to by his position as the Würzburger. He married many of the Frankel family in Urspringen.

In 1850 he published a pamphlet outlining the attitude towards non-Jews in the Talmud. This was intended to inform a debate in the Bavarian parliament on civil rights for the Jews.

On 28 July 1876 the German parliament passed the Austrittsgesetz, which allowed Jews to secede from their religious community. Many Jewish communities had by that time been dominated by the Reform movement, with Orthodox members forming informal groups (minyanim) to represent their interests. Following the passing of the Austrittsgesetz, Rabbi Samson Raphael Hirsch of Frankfurt, who had campaigned for the law to be passed, declared that Orthodox Jews in Frankfurt had the duty to officially secede from the Liberal Grossgemeinde. Rabbi Bamberger visited Frankfurt, and declared that this was not mandatory. A heated exchange of open letters followed between the rabbis. The conflict ultimately led to only a relatively small number of Orthodox Jews seceding from the main community. This was the case in Urspringen and probably nearly all the small rural communities of Franconia.

Mindel (nee Hamburger) Frankel (1778 – 1834) the wife of Nathan Frankel Mindel Hamburger the daughter of prominent Herz Hamburger of Butthard was the second wife of the well-established Nathan Frankel of Urspringen. We know by her letters and her signature that she was a highly educated and intelligent woman for her day. It can be seen that she instilled in her children the ambition to leave Urspringen and settle in the large German cities of Frankfurt, Munich and especially Berlin. Many in the succeeding generations became leading doctors, lawyers and businessmen.

In 1933, 90.2% were Catholics, 1.9% Protestants and 7.9% Jews.

The Jewish Elementary School, which had in the middle of the 19th Century dozens of schoolchildren, gradually diminished owing to the dwindling of the community and was finally closed down in 1918. From then on only lessons in Judaism were given on a daily basis ("cheder"). The leader of the community and its teacher, Simon Kissinger, was the spiritual leader for more than 50 years until just before the Holocaust. A branch of the Jewish National Fund was active for a time in Urspringen.

Urspringen: Under the Nazi Regime

In 1933, the Jewish Community of Urspringen was under the jurisdiction of the Wurzburg Rabbinate. It possessed the Synagogue, the Mikva and the school building.

For 1932/3 there were 12 pupils who learned Jewish studies. The dead were still buried in the ancient regional Jewish cemetery of Laudenbach, and occasionally in the neighbouring Jewish cemetery of Karbach.

In 1930 the community had a budget of 2718 Marks of which 1759 Marks was spent on religious needs (upkeep of Synagogue, Mikva, burials etc.), 919 Marks on Jewish Education, and 40 Marks on Welfare.

In 1937, the Jewish Community became under the jurisdiction of the Aschaffenburg District Rabbinate. By this time more than half the Jewish Community needed welfare. During 1933 - beginning of 1935, no Jews left Urspringen. From March 1935 until the pogroms of November 1938, 13 Jews left the village, 3 settling in Palestine, 3 to the USA and the rest to other locations in Germany.

Urspringen: Holocaust

The Jews of Urspringen suffered from restrictions and harassment even before the violence of the 10th November 1938 ("Kristallnacht"). According to an announcement by the Gestapo in Wurzburg from 24th October 1938, all the windows of the houses of 4 Urspringen Jews were smashed on the 29th September. In the disturbances that broke out in the afternoon of 10th November and which continued until midnight hooligans of the SA, mainly from Urspringen took part. At least six of the thugs - as revealed in an Inquiry by the Gestapo in Wurzburg - pillaged Jewish property. All the windows were smashed, the furniture destroyed, and household goods were tossed out. The hooligans didn't desist from the rampage even in a house where the dead body of a Jewish woman was lying. It took great determination on the part of the Community to bring her later to burial. The thugs broke into the synagogue throwing out the Tora scrolls, which were spread out over the length of the road. Other religious objects were later brought to the headquarters of the Nazi Party in Marktheidenfeld. Except for a few elderly men, all the Jewish males were arrested and sent to the prison in Lohr a Main. Most were released after a few days, the rest being sent to Dachau Concentration Camp. After the pogrom the Jews of Urspringen were ordered by the local schoolmaster, to move to the smallest houses in Urspringen. Their houses and other property were confiscated and the Mikva was converted to a bathhouse for the local Hitlerjugend (Hitler Youth). In December 4 Jews left Urspringen for other German towns; in 1939 a further 9 Jews left Urspringen, five settling in Frankfurt a Main.

In February 1942, 44 Jews were still residing in Urspringen. The Jewish Community was destroyed on 23rd April when 42 Jews were removed to Wurzburg and from there on the 25th April were transported to Izbica in the Lublin area in Poland. Of the last 2 Jews who were still in Urspringen on 1st November 1942 we have no information regarding their fate. After the War no Urspringen Jew returned.

Emigration from Germany 1850 -1933

Europeans in general were becoming very aware of the vast areas being opened up in the New World especially in the USA. This was spurred on by the discovery of gold in California in 1848 resulting in the subsequent Gold Rush.

It is estimated that nearly six million Germans immigrated to the United States between 1820 and World War1. From 1840 to 1880, they were the largest group of immigrants. We know from Dr. Leonhard Scherg's researches on the Heilner brothers of Urspringen, who reached California and later Oregon in the 1850's and who were in constant contact with their friend David Frankel that rural Jews in Franconia were greatly affected by the newly opening possibilities of a better life. However there were relatively few immigrants to USA from the Frankel family between 1850 and 1933.

We know that from Clemens Frankel that Pinkus Frankel born 1817, the son of Mindel and Nathan Frankel of Urspringen settled in America but we have no details.

Hirsch Henry Frankel arrived in New York in 1866 at the age of 20.

Nathan Frankel left Urspringen aged 15 arrived in America in 1867 and was living in Albuquerque in Colorado Territory in 1870 and finally settled in the frontier town of St Louis. His brother Isak Irwin Frankel also settled in St Louis before 1900.

Moses Frankel aged 16 arrived in New York in 1875.

The Heidelbergers arrived NY in 1903 and initially lived in Baltimore.

Ludwig Frank arrived in New York in 1904 and settled in Louisville, Kentucky.

The Nauheim family settled New York in 1904.

Friedrich Shalom Frankel and Alex Prag settled in Israel, then known as British Mandated Palestine, in the 1920s.

German Jews, seeking to emigrate, wait in the office of the Hilfsverein der Deutschen Juden (Relief Organization of German Jews). On the wall is a map of South America and a sign about emigration to Palestine. Berlin, Germany, 1935.

— YIVO Institute for Jewish Research, New York

Several factors determined the ebb and flow of emigration of Jews from Germany. These included the degree of pressure placed on the Jewish community in Germany and the willingness of other countries to admit Jewish immigrants. However, in the face of increasing legal repression and physical violence, many Jews fled Germany. Until October 1941, German policy officially encouraged Jewish emigration. Gradually, however, the Nazis sought to deprive Jews fleeing Germany of their property by levying an increasingly heavy emigration tax and by restricting the amount of money that could be transferred abroad from German banks.

In January 1933 there were some 523,000Jews in Germany, representing less than 1 percent of the country's total population. The Jewish population was predominantly urban and approximately one-third of German Jews lived in Berlin. The initial response to the Nazi takeover was a substantial wave of emigration (37,000–38,000), much of it to neighboring European countries (France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, and Switzerland). Most of these refugees were later caught by the Nazis after their conquest of Western Europe in May 1940. Jews who were politically active were especially likely to emigrate. Other measures that spurred decisions to emigrate in the early years of Nazi rule were the dismissal of Jews from the civil service and the Nazisponsored boycott of Jewish-owned stores.

During the next two years there was a decline in the number of emigrants. This trend may partly have been due to the stabilization of the domestic political situation, but was also caused by the strict enforcement of American immigration restrictions as well as the increasing reluctance of European and British Commonwealth countries to accept additional Jewish refugees.

Despite the passage of the Nuremberg Laws in September 1935 and subsequent related ordinances that deprived German Jews of civil rights, Jewish emigration remained more or less constant.

The events of 1938 caused a dramatic increase in Jewish emigration. The German annexation of Austria in March, the increase in personal assaults on Jews during the spring and summer, the nationwide Kristallnacht ("Night of Broken Glass") pogrom in November, and the subsequent seizure of Jewish-owned property all caused a flood of visa applications. Although finding a destination proved difficult, about 36,000 Jews left Germany and Austria in 1938 and 77,000 in 1939.

The sudden flood of emigrants created a major refugee crisis. President Franklin D. Roosevelt convened a conference in Evian, France, in July 1938. Despite the participation of delegates from 32 countries, including the United States, Great Britain, France, Canada, and Australia, only the Dominican Republic agreed to accept additional refugees. The plight of German-Jewish refugees, persecuted at home and unwanted abroad, is also illustrated by the voyage of the "St. Louis."

During 1938–1939, in a program known as the Kindertransport, the United Kingdom admitted 10,000 unaccompanied Jewish children on an emergency basis. 1939 also marked the first time the United States filled its combined German-Austrian quota (which now included annexed Czechoslovakia). However, this limit did not come close to meeting the demand; by the end of June 1939, 309,000 German, Austrian, and Czech Jews had applied for the 27,000 places available under the quota.

By September 1939, approximately 282,000 Jews had left Germany and 117,000 from annexed Austria. Of these, some 95,000 immigrated to the United States, 60,000 to Palestine, 40,000 to Great Britain, and about 75,000 to Central and South America, with the largest numbers entering Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Bolivia. More than 18,000 Jews from the German Reich were also able to find refuge in Shanghai, in Japanese-occupied China.

At the end of 1939, about 202,000 Jews remained in Germany and 57,000 in annexed Austria, many of them elderly. By October 1941, when Jewish emigration was officially forbidden, the number of Jews in Germany had declined to 163,000. The vast majority of those Jews still in Germany were murdered in Nazi camps and ghettos during the Holocaust.

End of article.

A similar pattern is reflected in my immediate family. My father Ferdinand Frankel settled in Great Britain about 1936 and later brought out his brother and sister-in-law, Julius and Hildegard Frankel to England. My first cousin Walter Krieger managed to reach the United Kingdom with the Kindertransport. My father's sister and brother-in-law Paula and Max Adler of Karlstadt with their children Lieselotte and Werner escaped to Brazil. My first cousin Marianne Frankel was sent to the United States at the age of 14. As for the rest of my father's family: his elder brother Siegfried escaped to France where he was captured and sent to Auschwitz and his sister and brother-in-law Sali and Bertram Krieger of Mainz were murdered in Treblinka.

In this family survey we were aided greatly by the details regarding all ships that reached the shores of the US, both in New York and California. Also the American 1940 census offers a guide to where the newcomers to America found refuge.

We have virtually no official or unofficial data on immigration to the UK and British Mandated Palestine. Sporadic information exists regarding South America. Some family members escaped via China, India and the Philippines.

The Holocaust and the Frankel- Dillenberger Family: In Memorium

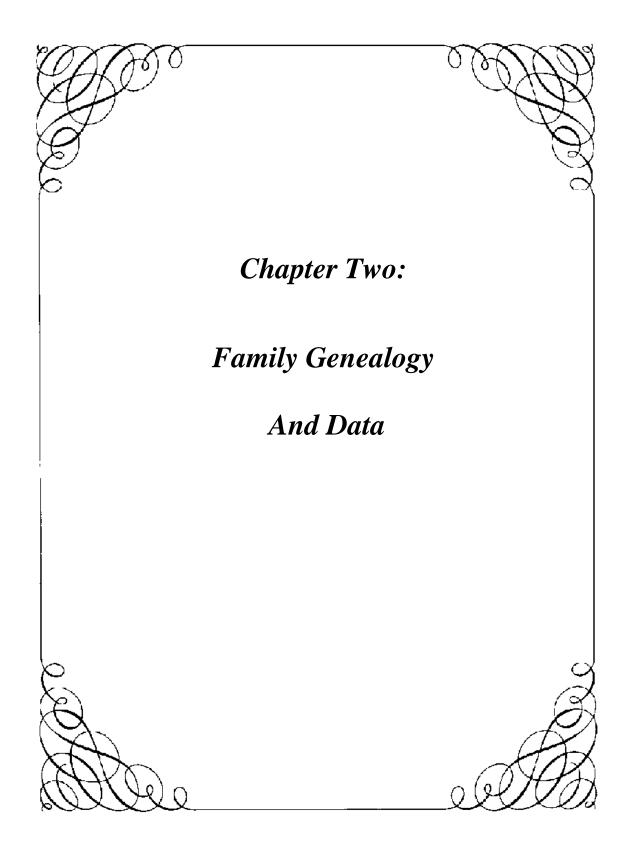

I do not intend to describe the Nazi killing process – this is well documented. I just want to place all the known members of the descendants of Berlein and their spouses together in a table which will provide a small window of the numbers involved just for one family.

The dates of death given are from the Yad VaShem site, either from the German lists or from the pages of testimony that had been submitted by family or friends of the deceased. The data at Yad VaShem for German Jewry, which is being constantly updated, is more accurate than for other European Jewish communities, but it is impossible to determine if someone reported killed in Auschwitz actually survived the journey to that terrible place or was later sent to another camp or took part in one of the forced marches where many died. We have family members who actually survived Theresienstadt and Auschwitz.

Convention

This work defines the first generation as being that of Berlein Jud of Urspringen (died 1745) and subsequent generations as being according to the natural father - child relations on the male lines. Owing to the very large families in the period 1700 -1900, the youngest child in the family may be over 25 years younger than the firstborn. In general we can take a generation as being a thirty year period.

In Volume 2 we define a reference to a generation in the form nn.m where nn is the family branch, m represents the generation, nn = 00 for the original family which contains the first five generations. (Volume 1) The history of the original family is described in Volume 1 and is common for all succeeding branches.

This chapter (Volume 2, Chapter 2) contains the searches for all 100 family branches, whether successful, partially successful, tragic or completely unsuccessful as of December 2016.

Most branches are depicted by an ancestry chart for the head of the branch. The identity/reference numbers in these charts are the same numbers as in Volume 1.

Table of the Branches of the Family Tree.

This table summarizes the approximately hundred branches of the family tree and is a direct continuation of the entries in Volume 1.

The Search

Sept 2000: Following our meeting with Alain Frankel in Nice in June 2000, we learned of additions to our version of the family tree. Harry Schmerl, on learning of these new facts found an updated version of the tree among his father's papers.

March 2008: This family was found in the census of 1870 and 1900. Henry Frankel arrived in USA in 1866.

July 2016: New data in Ancestry. This is the end of the search.

May 2000: Ansbacher Family

After the traditional barbecue for Israel Independence Day, and having a few quiet minutes to myself I wondered if I could find the Benno Ansbacher family who came from Frankfurt. After the usual JewishGen searches, phone calls etc. I again looked up the USA phonebook on the Internet. Bingo! There was a Benno Ansbacher. This has to be a grandson or close relation. How many Benno Ansbachers are in the world? I wrote one of my letters. No reply. By end of May I decided to phone Benno. It is always ironic how difficult some searches are while others fall into place without any effort. Benno, who hadn't received my letter was most friendly and confirmed that his grandparents were indeed Lucy nee Frankel and Dr. Benno Ansbacher. I received the family tree from Elizabeth Tissy Ansbacher of Ann Arbor.

This is the end of the search.

The Search 1999

On my copy of the family tree Moses and Jeanette are depicted as having three children, one called Carry (after Jeanette's late mother Caroline) and two empty branches with no names written down. When I first heard from Berthold Greenhut of New Jersey this branch is mentioned, but I couldn't understand the references. When I finally visited Hiltrud and Berthold Greenhut in their beautiful retirement home in November 1997, the puzzle clarified. Their copy of the family tree must have been produced slightly later and Moses and Jeanette have a daughter called Emma besides Carry. It would appear that as this branch had been over 30 years in New York before Clemens Frankel's work that this branch was somewhat lost and unclear to their relations still in Germany. Berthold had had some contact with his second cousins, Annie and Robert Schmerl. In early October 1999, I wrote to Robert Schmerl after finding the address on the Internet, hoping that this was the same one. Harry Schmerl replied in middle of November that they were indeed the family in question but that his father had died in 1990. Harry's collection of photos is featured.

Sept 2000

Following our meeting with Alain Frankel in Nice in June 2000, we learned of additions to our version of the family tree. Harry Schmerl, on learning of these new facts found an updated version of the tree among his father's paper. It turned out that Jeanette and Moses Frankel had actually four children.

2016

Moses revoked his Bavarian citizenship on 5 September 1874 as a first step to immigrating to the United States.

Moses Frankel aged 16 arrived in New York on 12 June 1875 on "Main".

We assume that Jeanette was sent to USA to marry Moses who was now called Morris. In the 1890s Jeanette and Morris lived in St. Louis, close to their cousin Nathan Frankel and his wife Emma. Emma Frankel, the daughter of Jeanette and Morris, was born in St. Louis and named in honour of the wife of Nathan Frankel. In the 1900 St Louis City Directory, Moses Frankel is listed as a telephone operator. According to daughter Emma Morris was a fun loving red-headed hell-raiser. The family settled in New York City in the 1900s.

Search (written in 2000). At the time there was only sparse information on the Internet. I am writing this on the day (22 September 2000) that I received the first confirmed photos of Emma and Nathan Frankel of St Louis, Missouri. It has taken two years, including the last intensive nine months to find family missing for 130 years, and has been the most complicated investigation to date. The Missouri State Archives were helpful but the History and Genealogical section of the St. Louis Public Library were magnificent. As a result I was able to reconstruct parts of the history up to 1920.

Starting Point

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of Sunday Morning, 25 July, 1909
"FRANKEL - entered into rest on Saturday, July 24, 1909, at 2.15 p.m., after a lingering illness, Nathan S. Frankel, beloved husband of Emma Frankel (nee Lohmann), father of Tillie Spiro (nee Frankel), Edmee, Sol and Fred Frankel, brother of Irvin Frankel, and our dear father-in-law and grandfather, aged 57 years and 5 months. Funeral on Tuesday, July 27, 1909 at 1. 30 p.m. from Hauck & Schmitt's chapel, 3114, South Grand avenue, to Mount Sinai Cemetery."

There were two other pieces of information on the Internet: a Fred Frankel had died in Los Angeles in 1978, and a Mrs. J. Russell of St. Louis had donated to inscribing Nathan S. Frankel on the Wall of Distinguished American Immigrants at Ellis Island, the major point of entry into the USA.

My enterprising cousin and colleague in Santa Barbara, Ruth Sachs, found Fred's obituary in the Los Angeles paper but he had left no family. However Ruth requested the death certificate which proved that this Fred was the son of Nathan and Emma of St. Louis, and gave as executor, a Mr. Fred Goebel of Arizona, who proved to be a cousin of the above mentioned Marjory Russell of St Louis, who is Nathan and Emma's grand-daughter.

Search 2016 and Summary

Nathan Frankel aged 15 arrived at New York on 5 August 1867 on "America". In 1870 he was in Albuquerque in Colorado Territory. He received American citizenship in 1876. He married in St Louis in 1878.

In 1900, according to the 8th census, Nathan Frankel lived with his wife Emma, and children Tillie E, Salomon N, Frederick and Edmee. Emma and the children are registered as having been all born in Missouri. The 1900 St. Louis City directory states that Nathan S. Frankel had a dancing school or parlour.

By 1905, according to the City Directory of that year, the Frankels, including Tillie, the eldest daughter and her husband Leon Spiro, had moved to 1420 Hickory St. Nathan's dancing establishment was relocated to 1441 Chouteau Avenue. Emma had opened a millinery business with her in-law Alva Spiro at 1203 South Broadway.

From the 1910 City Directory it is clear that following Nathan's death, the family moved to 3630A Botanical Avenue together with the Spiros. The 9th census of 1910 shows nine members of the family living together at this address: Leon, Tillie, Ruth, Ralph and Lee A. Spiro, Emma Frankel, Sol and Olga (nee Spiro) Frankel and Fred Frankel.

Emma was still living with the Spiros in 1920 in 3630A Botanical Avenue.

After Leon Spiro's death, the Spiro family moved to California. Emma remained in St Louis with her youngest daughter, Edmee. Emma would travel every year to California to visit her children. Her grandchildren called her as "Big Mom".

Tillie, the eldest daughter, married Leon Spiro, who, according to the St Louis City Directories, worked as a clerk at different workplaces

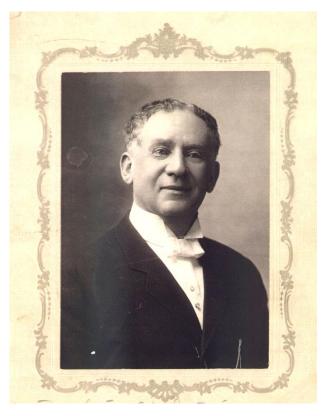

In 1909 following Nathan's early death, Leon became the head of the family. Leon's sister Olga married Fred Frankel in 1907.

Solomon Frankel was a travelling salesman in 1910.

In 1905, Fred worked as a clerk. In 1910 he was living with the Spiro's. Fred and Olga Frankel moved to California in the 1920's. Fred earned his living as a betting clerk at racecourses in California.

The Search

1996. Here I cheated a bit. Sometimes if you can't see the target you have to do a detour to the left and a feint to the right in order to get a better view. I had known that the famous Kissinger family was on the family tree and that their family tree had been submitted to the Diaspora Museum and that my father's aunt Babette appears on it. In fact two branches of the Frankel tree are mutual to the Kissinger tree. On his second phone call I was already speaking to Elizabeth Levy of Mevasseret Zion, Israel, the compiler of the Kissinger genealogy. A Fred Stern from New York had written to Elizabeth saying that he had in his possession a Frankel family tree dating from 1927...

The Stern family originated in Reckendorf, 16 km North of Bamberg in Upper Franconia.

The sandstone synagogue was the centre of Jewish life in Reckendorf

Elizabeth Levy submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Fanny (nee Kissinger) and Julius Stern.

In 1999 I submitted to Yad VaShem a page of testimony for Albert Stern.

Sally Sonder and his second wife Irma (Kissinger) Sonder arrived at New York on 3 October 1938 on "Volendam".

Werner Sonder arrived at New York on 11 September 1934 on "Veendam".

Fritz Stern arrived at New York on 5 August 1937 on "Manhattan".

The sisters Erika and Margot Sonder arrived at New York on 23 December 1936 on "Aquitania".

Nathan Stern married Mathilde Strauss on 19 March 1905 in Manhattan, New York.

Fred (Fritz) Stern arrived at New York from Australia via Southampton on 7 December 1949 on "Queen Elizabeth". He had been sent to England on Kindertransport and from then was sent to Australia for the duration of the War. He knew my father Ferdinand Frankel from Munchen. I personally met Celia and Fred Stern in their home in New York.

The Search

See my notes for August 1999. Marc D. Elkan of Atlanta, Ga provided the following material and photographs.

Marianne and Moses Elkan of Nurnberg

In 1999 I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Friedrich and Emma Elkan and their daughter Edith.

In 2016 I submitted a page of testimony for Brunhilde the daughter Friedrich and Emma Elkan.

Siegfried Elkan was a decorated WW1 veteran receiving at least two iron crosses.

Siegfried Elkan: on duty WW1, in formal uniform, outside family shoe store

Siegfried and Louise Elkan together with their sons Kurt and Bruno arrived at New York on 19 February1936 aboard "Manhattan". Siegfried became US citizen 19 Aug 1943 and Louise on 10 Aug 1943. Kurt served with US Army in Pacific. Bruno served in Europe during WW2. He served with General Patton's army broadcasting misinformation to the Germans.

Ingeborg (Inge) Seligmann arrived with her mother Else in New York on 10 November 1942 on "El Nil" from Liverpool. End of search

In 1999 I submitted a page of testimony to Yad VaShem for my uncle Siegfried Frankel who was captured in France, sent to the transit camp Drancy, and was murdered in Auschwitz.

In 1999 I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for my Uncle and Aunt Bertram and Sali Frankel who were murdered in Treblinka.

Marianne Frankel, aged 14, arrived in New York on "Deutschland" on 19 March 1938 and received US citizenship on 23 November 1945 in Indianapolis.

In the public domain, there is no mention of my parents, Alice Steuer and Ferdinand Frankel arriving in UK in 1930s. However their marriage is recorded in 1942.

Likewise, there is no mention of my cousin, Walter Krieger, aged 14, arriving in England with the Kindertransport in 1939.

My Aunt and Uncle Paula and Max Adler of Karlstadt with their children Lieselotte and Werner arrived at Santos, Brazil on 30 March 1937. The Adlers settled in the city of Porto Alegre, in Southern Brazil. Later they settled in Sao Paulo.

Susan and Martin Frankel arrived at Haifa on 3 November 1968 on "Moledet".

Much of the material was received from Elizabeth Levy of Mevasseret Zion, Israel, a member of the Kissinger family who published the genealogy of the Kissinger Family.

Babette or Betty was the fifth child of Salomon and Breinla Frankel. She married Simon Kissinger who came from a well-known family of Jewish schoolteachers who were active in Bavaria.

One of the last references in the Schubel document from the Castell Archives reads: On the death of her parents Babette Frankel inherited houses 165, and 166 that had belonged to the widow of Salomon Frankel and also belonged to Salomon Frankel. (Sch 434-5).

Simon Kissinger (Lehrer Kissinger) was the head of the Jewish School in Urspringen until its dissolution in 1914, and was the head of the Urspringen Jewish Community for fifty years.

Simon Kissinger in late 1930s

Salomon Kissinger was a teacher.

Ferdinand was a teacher of Jewish studies. He was married but later divorced.

Julius was a teacher of Jewish studies. The Kissingers lived in Munchen.

Jenny married Lazarus Elieser Neuhaus, a teacher, the 21st (!) child of Jakob Neuhaus. They lived in Hachenburg. They settled in Palestine in the 1930's. Elieser, who had been a teacher, became a wine merchant in Petach Tikva.

Pages of testimony were submitted to Yad VaShem by Elizabeth Levy, Erich Bloch and myself for Ferdinand Kissinger, Jenny (nee Shuster) and Julius Kissinger and their sons Albert and Manfred.

In 2016 I submitted to Yad VaShem pages of testimony for Salomon and Ruth (nee Bruck) Kissinger and their son Arno who were deported from Theresienstadt to Auschwitz.

Itzhak Neuhaus

From the Yizkor Book of the Defense Ministry of Israel for Israel's fallen soldiers:

Itzhak Neuhaus z"l, son of Eliezer and Jenny.

Born in the town of Hachenburg, Germany. Completed elementary school education and after his family settled in Israel, at the beginning of 1939, he finished his studies at the Netzach Israel school in Petach-Tikva. For a while he worked in his father's wine shop, and when 18 learned diamond polishing and worked in this profession until his military call-up. He excelled in his trade and was popular with his employers and his fellow workmates.

In January 1948 he was recruited to the (not yet official) army. At the Sharona training camp he was picked to learn driving and on completion was sent to Gedera and drove staff-officers. Feeling that this job was a kind of getting-out of his duty - as the only boy to his parents in Israel, he was in fact exempt - he relinquished his prerogative and volunteered for combat service. To his parents he wrote

"I swore allegiance to the Army, and should the need arise I am prepared to sacrifice my life for Israel".

He volunteered to a commando unit and during an attack in an open jeep on a hill he was hit and died at Abadis on 13th July 1948. The following day he was buried at Beer Tuvia. One of the cannons captured from the enemy was named after him.

Siegbert Oppenheimer of Frankfurt aged 17 arrived at New York on 5 August 1937 on "Manhattan".

Bella (nee Kissinger) and Karl Kalman Oppenheimer arrived Seattle in August 1940 from Yokahama, Japan on "Hie Maru".

On 20th October 2000 I suddenly I found Werner Warren Odenheimer in the Family Tree of the Jewish People on the Internet. His name had been submitted by Carla Weiss of Kiryat Tivon, Israel to the Diaspora Museum and from there was transferred to the FTJP the previous month. Carla affirmed that the family had come from Ingelheim.

Itzhak Kali of Israel submitted a page of testimony to Yad VaShem for Betty (nee Kahn) Langstadter.

Itzhak Kali submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Paula and Leopold Krauskopf.

In 2016 I submitted a page of testimony to Yad VaShem for Harry (Henri) Kahn who had managed to escape Germany but was seized in France.

In 2016 I submitted a page of testimony to Yad VaShem for Marcel Schmaus of Paris.

Joseph (Julius) and Frieda Odenheimer and their son Werner (Warren) arrived at San Francisco on 21 September 1940 on "Kamakura Maru" from Kobe, Japan.

Hans (John) Odenheimer arrived New York on 7 August 1945 on "Edward Bellamy" from Manilla.

I met Warren and the late John Odenheimer about 2005 in San Francisco. John managed to take the last plane out of Germany and via a series of stopping places like Beirut, Bagdad, Basra, Mumbai, Rangoon and Hong Kong managed to reach Manilla in the Philippines. He was incarcerated by the Japanese from 1942 to 1945. After liberation, his brother, the now-American soldier Warren managed to meet John in Manilla. A man of great resourcefulness, John then earned his way as a ship's cook for the journey from Philippines to New York, and when in New York harbor took drugs that forced the ship's authorities to hospitalize him in New York City. His Mother, then resident in San Francisco, managed to arrange legal counsel to release him into the US.

The finding of this family was recounted in Volume 1. In my search for Israeli Dillenbergers, I came across the families of Arieh Dillenberger and Hanna Dillenberger Kozma, the grandchildren of Paulina Frankel and Adolf Dillenberger. As a result all the descendants of Hona Frankel were located.

There is a page of testimony at Yad VaShem submitted by his brother Eduard Frankel for Alfons Frankel.

Carol Horst of Brussels found me on JewishGen in September 2000. She comes from the Scharff family, originally from the village of Essinger in the Palatinate region of Germany. Her great-uncle Hugo Scharff of Munchen married Mimi Steinhardter, the grand-daughter of Sara and Adolf Frankel.

Ilse Brull of Innsbruck was murdered in Auschwitz. (London Jewish Chronicle 8 September 2016). She was deported from the Netherlands to Auschwitz where she was murdered. In Yad Vashem there are two pages of testimony. Her father Rudolf Brull survived Theresienstadt.

In 1999 I submitted Testimony for Berta Dresdner to Yad VaShem.

Hugo and Marie Scharff arrived in Buenos Aires on 11 June 1940 on "Highland Patriot".

Anneliese Scharff arrived in Buenos Aires on 29 November 1938 on "Alcantara". End of Search Siegfried Gutenstein together with his wife Paula and daughters Ruth and Hannah arrived Boston, Massachusetts on 21 February 1940 on "Nova Scotia". The Gutensteins changed their name to Goode.

Franz Cahn arrives with his parents and two brothers at Halifax Canada in February 1939 on "Duchess of Richmond". Franz Cahn entered USA from Canada in 1939. The entire Popper family were murdered. They had been protected by a high-ranking officer of the German Army who was a friend of Dr. Popper from WW1 but were betrayed late 1944 when the officer died. [Transmitted to me by Hannah Cahn]. There are pages of Testimony to them at Yad VaShem submitted by Paula Goode and Hannah Cahn.

We first heard of the Nauheim family from Alain Frankel of Nice, France (see 36.6) in 2000. The Nauheim tree was expanded manually on Alain's copy of Clement Frankel's tree.

On 4 November Pauline and Minna Nauheim arrived in New York on "Moltke". In June 1904, Josua (Joseph) and Ricka Nauheim with rest of family arrived in New York on "Blucher". They settled in New York with their seven children: Pauline, Minna, Ray, Max, Johanna, Alfred and Salomon. Also Henry Liegner.

Oscar Wantuch settled in New York in 1908.

In March 2017, Penny Eisenberg the granddaughter of Recha Ray Nauheim contacted me via JewishGen and cousin Werner Hirsch of New Haven. End of search.

Mathilde Frankel, together with daughter and son-in-law Martha and Leopold Samuel Grunhut with their son Berthold arrived 15 December 1938 in New York on "Nieuw Amsterdam".

From Hiltrud and Berthold Greenhut:

Jakob Frankel, son of Hona Lob and Caroline Frankel married Mathilde the daughter of Samuel and Sara Schrotter of Kitzingen. He had a dry goods store in Saarlouis. On Jakob's death from a heart attack, she moved to live with her daughter and son-in-law in Regensburg immigrating with them to America in 1938.

Martha Frankel married Samuel Leopold the son of Isidor and Hermine Grunhut of Regensberg. In Germany, Samuel had a business in skins and hides and butcher supplies. In America he worked in a factory that made plastic eye glass frames. Their son Berthold of the eighth generation married his cousin, Hiltrud, daughter of Samuel and Ida Frankel of the seventh generation.

Recounted by Alain Frankel, Nice, France in 2000.

Hona Lob's seventh child Normann (actually born Hermann Nathan) settled in Saarbrucken, in the Saar region of Germany, where he was a cloth merchant. His grandson, Alain, still possesses his grandfather's scissors.

Normann and Frieda Frankel's only son Ernst was a doctor, who had studied in Munich. After the Saarlanders voted in the plebiscite of January 1935 to rejoin the German Reich, Ernst Frankel was advised by a friend with Nazi leanings to flee, and having also French citizenship Dr. Ernst settled in Nice and built up a practice there. He married Margaret Abraham from London, whose parents originally came from the Saar in 1938. During the first part of the World War II, Nice although part of Vichy France was relatively free. Later the Germans and their collaborators began rounding up Jews and others. The Frankels were particularly vulnerable, both being Jewish and Mrs. Frankel also British. One day, one their way back to their home, they were warned by neighbours not to go home as the Germans were waiting for them. They fled to the hills, and Margaret hid in Vence. Dr. Ernst, on his bicycle had been questioned by the Germans, and taking his life (literally) in his hands had managed to jump into a ravine, with his bicycle, and had survived and escaped. Alfred Landauer of Metz, a cousin, who had met him and greatly admired him, affirmed that Ernst Frankel had indeed been a doctor for the Resistance.

Ernst's son, Alain possesses a remarkable historical photo taken after the liberation of Nice, showing Winston Churchill, Mountbatten, and two rows behind them, Margaret and Ernst Frankel. The Frankels had been invited because of Margaret's British citizenship.

After the War, the Frankels returned to Nice, Dr Ernst resumed practice and the two brothers Patrick and Alain were born. In 1952, when Alain was 3 his father died of cancer, aged 50. His mother Margaret died in 1969 aged 57. The two boys were forced to sell the family apartment and surgery to finance Patrick's surgery in Lyon, as he had followed in his father's profession.

In 2012 Ronit and I visited the Jewish Cemetery on the site of the Gurs transit Camp in Southern France, near the Pyrenees. Many Jews of Baden were sent here together with about 70,000 French Jews. There is a gravestone dedicated to Isidor Frankel of Freiburg, who met his death in Gurs. We did not see the gravestone dedicated to his wife Delphine so we assume she was deported to Auschwitz together with most of the Jewish inmates of Gurs.

Her cousin, Helen Neil of USA submitted a page of Testimony to Yad VaShem for Delphine Frankel

In 2016 I sent a testimony to Yad VaShem for Isidor Frankel. End of Search

Zeev Susser who settled in Tel Aviv in 1938 was a good friend of my Uncle Max Adler of San Paulo Brazil. They had been friends in Karlstadt. Likewise he was known to my cousin Walter Krieger. When Suzie and I first met him in the 1970s he had a copy of the family tree of 1927 in his living room. End of search.

The basis of this work is the incredible feat of Clemens Frankel, the son of Hedwig (nee Frankel) and David Frankel who in 1927, painted the Frankel Family Tree. A copy was apparently given to all then living relations. We do not know if he compiled the actual data but the tree has been found to be very accurate.

In 1999 I sent a page of testimony to Yad Vashem for Clemens Frankel.

There is an account of the life of Clemens Frankel by Martin Harth. See page 166, Chapter 3 of this Volume.

Dr. Walter K. Frankel, Manila 1945

Search

Gisela Frankel was murdered by the Japanese in Manila, Philippines because she was Jewish. There is a long report of this atrocity by her husband Dr. Walter Frankel to the US Japanese Atrocity tribunal in February 1945. See Page 173, Chapter 3 of this volume.

Dr. Walter K. Frankel arrived on 12 March 1946 at San Francisco on "Marine Eagle" from Manila. He later lived in Newark, NJ.

In 2016, I submitted a page of testimony to Yad Vashem for Gisela Frankel. Unfortunately Manila is outside the geographical scope of Yad Vashem and they apologized: they would keep the testimony in a repository but it would not be placed in the Hall of Names.

In 1999 I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Lucie (nee Flatau) and Dr. Alfred Hirschberg.

From the German phonebooks on the Web, I deduced, without death certificates:

- 1. Dr. Julius Halle died in Berlin about 1924,
- 2. Jenny (nee Schlesinger) Halle, died about 1932 in Munchen.

The distinguished lawyer, Dr Ernst Flatau of Berlin managed by great courage and cunning to save his entire family from the Nazis. His eldest son Gert (later Gerald) born 1923 managed to reach Australia where he served in the Australian Army.

The Flataus were very assimilated, affluent and not religious.

During Kristallnacht in November 1938, the Nazis took Ernst to Sachsenhausen concentration camp. Ernst's wife Anny used bribery to get her husband released. Ordered to leave Germany, the family, consisting of Ernst, Anny and twin sons Rolf and Fred, fled to Prague (Czechoslovakia), then Italy, arriving in 1940. They were forced to wear black shirts but did not have problems with anti-Semitism.

However, when Hitler allied with Mussolini, Ernst was sent to a camp called Ferramont for one year. The family moved around for years attempting to escape capture and persecution. When they made it to Rome they used their connections to get an apartment and changed their name to "Ferrucci." Fred became an altar boy and attended Mass.

Rome fell to the American Army on 4th June 1944.

On 3 June 1944, President Roosevelt announced that 1,000 Jewish refugees were able to enter the United States. The Flatau family was included in those 1,000. The family sailed to America and made their way to Oswego, New York. From there they moved to New York City.

Fred completed his medical education at Heidelberg, returning to US to practice as a doctor.

In January 2016, my old friend/sort of relation Elizabeth Levy of Mevasseret Zion contacted me regarding an inquiry from Julie Meyers of New Jersey. Julie had discovered that her family were Adlers from Urspringen. Dr. Leonhard Scherg, who had researched the Adler family kindly gave me permission to use his information. My grandmother Marianne was from this family. Julie's late mother Doris Davidson was a hitherto unknown second cousin of mine! The deaths I uncovered from Yad VaShem were heartbreaking and were unknown to both Julie and me.

In 2016 I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Justin and Lina and their children Manfred and Inge Adler.

In 2016 I submitted pages of testimony to Yad VaShem for Frieda and Jakob Schonfarber.

In July 2017 Lea (nee Friedenhain) Toledo of Jerusalem phoned me to tell me that she was the grand daughter of Elsa Dillenberger and that Tal Hanoch of Tel Aviv had made the connection between us. I told her that I had been waiting for many years to hear from her family and had had no means available to find them. I met Lea and her brother Bernardo in our home a few days later. It turned out that the Friedenhain family had managed to escape to Paraguay in 1939 and subsequently illegally crossed the border into Argentina settling in Buenos Aires. The family never possessed Argentinian nationality and only Bernardo was Argentinian as he was born there.

Lea settled in Israel in 1958 and on the death of her father, her Mother and brother also settled in Jerualem. Lea Toledo had been the headmistress of a Junior High School in Jerusalem. End of Search

My Immediate Family: The Family of Wolf and Marianne Frankel

This should also have been the easiest investigation as this is my own closest family. But as my family is a particularly tragic family, there are apparently different rules, and facts and truths were peculiarly elusive, and almost invariably I missed all the proverbial boats.

Firstly my grandparents, Wolf and Marianne as well as my Uncle Max Frankel were long dead before I was born. My Aunt Sali (nee Frankel) and Uncle Bertram Krieger, and my Uncle Siegfried Frankel perished in the Holocaust, and my Father, Ferdinand Frankel died in 1950 when I was six. My remaining potential sources, Uncle Julius and Aunt Paula also died a generation ago, the latter in faraway Brazil.

To make things personally even worse, it seems that my Mother, Alice Steuer Frankel, who also lost her parents in the Holocaust, and my Father, Ferdinand Frankel, who met and married in England in 1942, had great difficulty talking about their previous lives. This is common to many survivors.

The full descendant chart can be found in Chapter 2: 11.6. I decided that as this is a history, I would only refer to generations 6 and 7 and occasionally generation 8.

Wolf Frankel b: 18 Nov 1857 in Urspringen d: 26 April 1926 in Karlstadt Marianne Adler b: 14 April 1865 in Urspringen d: Feb 1921 in Karlstadt Married about 1886

Wolf Frankel, the fourth child of Salomon and Breinla Frankel, was born in Urspringen and married his third cousin, Marianne Adler, the daughter of Fanny Dillenberger Adler and Lion Adler, also from Urspringen. About 1886, they moved to the nearby town of Karlstadt, on the bank of the River Main, where Wolf Frankel opened a shoe shop and workhouse and where all their six children were born. For many Jews of rural background, the shoe business was a logical step from cattle trading, because of the hides. The shoe shop was situated near the town centre, with the family living above it. It was closed on the Sabbath and holy days. Wolf Frankel was also gifted in horticulture and viticulture and tended an orchard and a vineyard.

All four boys served in the First World War and the second son Max was killed on the Russian front in 1917. Marianne died "of a broken heart" in 1921. Wolf, who was the President of the Karlstadt Jewish Community, died in 1926. Wolf and Marianne are buried in nearby Laudenbach Cemetery.

About 1922: (l to r) Siegfried, Paula, unknown, Wolf Frankel, Ferdinand, Sali and Bertram Krieger, Julius

They had six children:

Siegfried Frankel b: 26 Sep 1887 in Karlstadt d: 1942 in Auschwitz

Anny Lob b: Mannheim d: abt 1937

Married about 1922.

Siegfried in Navy

Siegfried Frankel, was the eldest son of Marianne and Wolf Frankel. He served in WW1 in the German Navy. It would appear that he tried to set up a shoe business after WW1.

Siegfried (standing) and Julius at Shoe Exhibition 1920

Wedding of Anny and Siegfried Frankel

Anny and Siegfried Frankel

Siegfried together with his brothers Ferdinand and Julius had an aluminum plant in the 1920's in the Munich area. Anny, who for reasons I haven't managed to discover, committed suicide in the 1930s. Their only daughter, Marianne was sent to America at the age of 14 in March 1938 with a group of German-Jewish children, settling in Indianapolis. Siegfried escaped to France, after the Nazis assumed power. Following the German invasion of France, Siegfried was captured, sent to the transit camp Drancy, France and was murdered in Auschwitz in 1942.

One of my biggest regrets is that I missed Marianne (1923 – 1992) the only daughter of Anny and Siegfried Frankel by seven years and her husband Joe Jackson (1916 – 1997) by two. After all if you have succeeded in finding fifth cousins you should be able to find your own first cousin, even though you only met her once when you were a child. For geographic and perhaps other reasons, Marianne, living in Indianapolis, lost contact with most of the family. With the help of my cousin Vera in Brazil, who managed to find an old address and Ruth Sachs in Santa Barbara, who had actually known Marianne, and who did the sleuthing, we learned that the Jacksons had passed away. They never had children. Ruth remembers Marianne being desperate to find family and actually phoning all Frankels in the phonebook when she visited a new city. After her mother's death, Marianne, was brought up by her mother's parents, the Lobs, and was later sent to Indianapolis, Indiana. She married Joseph Jackson.

Max Frankel b: 8 January 1891 in Karlstadt d: 28 October 1917 in Bucacz

Max Frankel, the second son was born in Karlstadt and was conscripted into the German Army during the First World War. He fought on the Russian Front, was badly injured, and died of his wounds in the German military hospital, Bucacz, Galicia in October 1917, just at the time of the cease-fire in the Eastern Front. As a result of this tragedy, his mother Marianne died of a broken heart in 1921. His name is recorded on the plaque commemorating the fallen in the Parish Church of St. Andreas, Karlstadt.

Ferdinand Frankel b: 9 Dec 1892 in Karlstadt d: 12 May 1950 in Ironbridge, England, buried Birmingham.

Alice Steuer b: 2 February 1912 in Cologne d: 22 October 2016 in London, buried Birmingham.

Married: 1942 in Birmingham, England.

Ferdinand Frankel was the third son of Wolf and Marianne Frankel. He studied at boarding school in nearby Wurzburg. He received a solid training in the metal industry. In 1912 he was working in the metal industry in Cologne. During the First World War he served in the German Army.

Ferdinand Frankel WW1

After the War he moved to Munich, going into business in the aluminium industry together with his brothers, Siegfried and Julius. Apparently the firm went bankrupt in the 1920s. He moved to England in 1936, settling in St. Albans just north of London. He guaranteed and brought out his brother and sister-in-law, Julius and Hiddi to England not long after.

Ferdinand Frankel

At the outbreak of the Second World War, he was interned by the British as a German alien on the Isle of Man, along with many German-Jewish refugees. In 1941, he was released on account of his expertise and experience, receiving a special permit to set up an aluminium refinery and recovery factory in Ironbridge, Shropshire, as part of the British War effort. The recovered aluminium went to the manufacture of incendiary bombs. Interestingly, the Industrial Revolution in England started in this area in the eighteenth century, when Abraham Darby built his iron works in nearby Coalbrookdale, and the first iron bridge in the world still spans the River Severn in the village that is named after that historical engineering structure.

Alice and Ferdinand Frankel

He met Alice Steuer, born 1912 in Cologne, a refugee living in Cambridge, in 1942 and they married soon afterwards at the Birmingham Hebrew Congregation Singer's Hill Synagogue. They lived in Wellington, Shropshire, where their two children were born. They had a loving marriage. As Wellington was far from the nearest Jewish Community in Wolverhampton (32 kilometers), the family would spend the Jewish festivals in seaside resorts with Jewish hotels or communities, such as Llandudno and Colwyn Bay in North Wales and Southport, Blackpool, and St. Anne's in Lancashire.

Alice Frankel and Martin in 1943 The only photo of my core family, Llandudno 1947 Ferdinand Frankel was a cultured man who liked poetry. He had great depth of thought and an inventive mind. Of an independent and self-reliant disposition, he had natural leadership talents, and was dedicated to his family.

Ferdinand Frankel was killed in an explosion at his aluminium plant on the 12th May 1950 and is buried in Witton Jewish Cemetery in Birmingham. Alice Frankel, who died aged 104 was known for her strong character. She was fiercely loyal, had a natural curiosity and interest, and a very good brain and her children were most devoted to her, while her grandchildren were crazy about her. She brought her children up single-handed, moving to London from Shropshire in 1956. Following the death of Ferdinand Frankel, his nephew, Walter Krieger helped Alice Frankel to manage the family affairs. She was very proud of her German-Jewish background. She was buried in Witton near her husband Ferdinand.

Continuity

31 July 2013: At the Wedding of Gidon Frankel to Lilach Harel in Petach Tikva, Israel with family from England and Israel

Sali Frankel b: 18 Jan 1894 in Karlstadt d: late 1942 in Treblinka Bertram Krieger b: 29 July 1887 in Mainz d: late 1942 in Treblinka. Married about 1920.

Sali Frankel was the fourth child and first daughter to Marianne and Wolf. A striking woman, she married Bertram Krieger and they had one son Walter. The Kriegers lived in the famous Jewish Community of Mainz, and were very religious. Their only son Walter studied in Yeshiva until sent to England by "Kindertransport" in 1938. The letters sent to Walter in England, by his Mother are most moving and tragic. Sali and Bertram Krieger were deported to Poland in 1942 were they perished in Treblinka.

Sali, Bertram and Walter Krieger in 1938

Walter Krieger (1924 – 1992) the only son of Sali and Bertram Frankel grew up in an ultra-Orthodox family in the famous historical Jewish community of Mainz (Mayence), receiving a Yeshiva education. When the situation in Germany deteriorated he was sent to England on a "Kindertransport" about 1938. He lived with the kindly and hospitable Zand family, who kept a Jewish Boarding House in the Lancashire seaside resort of Blackpool. After working as a dental technician, he joined the J. Frankel Aluminium concern belonging to his Uncle Julius and became a businessman.

Walter as a young man

Tiberias, Israel 1973

Walter was the greatest help to the family of Alice Frankel after the death of Ferdinand Frankel, acting as head of the family for forty years. He had a very close circle of friends from his days in the Federation of Zionist Youth in Blackpool. He never married.

At his burial at Bushey, Rabbi Jackson said "although Walter Krieger never had children, many present here feel that they have lost a father".

Julius Frankel b: 17 Nov 1898 in Karlstadt d: 1 May 1966 in London Hildegarde Hony b: 26 June 1913 Stuttgart d: 27 Nov 1984 in London

Julius Frankel, the fifth child served in the First World War in a non-combatant capacity. In the 1920s he worked with his elder brothers, Siegfried and Ferdinand, in the aluminium industry in Germany. He married Hildegard Hony in the 1930s.

Julius Frankel

Hildegard Frankel

They received permission to settle in Britain in 1936, through the efforts of Ferdinand. Julius Frankel set up aluminium smelting factories in Walsall and Wednesbury, in the heart of the English industrial Midlands. At their peak, these factories employed three hundred workers and offices in London, Manchester, and New York, and Julius Frankel was particularly proud of the excellent industrial relations in the company.

Hiddi and Julius Frankel

Julius Frankel suffered a series of serious heart attacks in his later years. After one of these attacks, he was treated by a Jewish doctor in the South of France, by the name of Dr. Ernst Frankel (see 37.6) of Nice, and the two discovered that they were in fact cousins.

The Frankels moved from Walsall to London after the Second World War. Julius Frankel treated his wife like a film star, and she acted like one herself. I remember Julius as a wise, compassionate man with great presence, who gave very generously to Jewish and general charities, but who was increasingly limited by his heart condition, to which he succumbed finally in May 1966. They are both buried in Bushey Jewish Cemetery, outside London.

Paula Frankel b: 4 March 1901 in Karlstadt d: 10 Nov 1968 in Sao Paolo, Brazil Max Adler b: 7 October 1902 in Karlstadt d: 13 Sep 1978 in Sao Paulo, Brazil

Paula Frankel, the youngest daughter of Marianne and Wolf Frankel married Max Adler, the son of Ida and Simon Adler, also from Karlstadt a/Main. They ran the family shoe shop in Karlstadt after the deaths of Paula's parents.

On 31 March 1937 with the situation deteriorating in Germany, Max, and Paula together with their two children, Lieselotte aged 9 and Werner 1 year and 9 months old, left Germany on a ship bound for Brazil. At this time it was still possible to leave Germany if one received an endorsement from a foreign country. Max Hoffman, a German friend of Max Adler, who was living in Brazil at the time, sent the necessary guarantees. They were lucky because Brazil was later to close its frontiers to immigrants. The ship arrived a month later on 30 March 1937 at the Brazilian port of Santos near Sao Paolo. The Adlers settled in the city of Porto Alegre, in Southern Brazil.

They went into dairying becoming the largest milk distributors in Porto Alegre. The War had started by this time and there was milk rationing. As a result of anti-Semitism they were forced to close their dairy as it wasn't considered fair for Jews to have milk while the local population were rationed. They afterwards opened a shoe shop.

Max and Paula about 1954

Paula and Max with Lieselotte and Werner

After the war had finished, Paula's brother Julius Frankel, who was living in London, invited them to England. They left Brazil by ship on 10 August 1948 after having lived there 11 years. In London, Max worked for Julius Frankel's aluminium factory, as a sales representative. After 3 years and 5 month living in Ludlow Way, Hampstead Garden Suburb, London, the British Government refused to grant them British Citizenship and they were forced to return to Brazil.

They left London by ship on 20 January 1951. This time, they decided to settle in São Paulo, which was already a big city with more work opportunities. Max worked then in imports and later he worked in advertising.

Both are buried at the Jewish Cemetery of Butantã, in São Paulo.

Werner Adler writes of his parents:

Both Paula and Max were very good parents. They were not strict, had a good humour, patience and were kind. Both were very generous and very worried with the family. Family for them was really something very important.

Lieselotte, married Robert (Roberto) the son of Sigmund and Ella Elsie Ullmann. Roberto's parents had a printing shop and publishing house, and Roberto worked there, later inheriting it on his father's death. Roberto and Lieselotte are buried at the Jewish Cemetery at Butanta, Sao Paulo.

Werner is the owner and President of a trade company of wood and laminates.

The Mannheimers

Dr. Fritz Mannheimer

In September, 2002 I received a letter from Amsterdam. Dr. Martine Wolff, an art historian, asked me if I knew that Dr. Fritz Mannheimer, who appears in the Frankel family tree, and whom she found in JewishGen had been a famous art collector. His art collection containing paintings by which included works by Chardin, Fragonard, Watteau, and Rubens had been forcibly acquired by the Nazis and were found after the war in the salt mines of Bohemia where the Nazis hoarded looted treasures from Jewish families. The painting now hang in the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam. There is a lot of material on the Internet regarding Fritz Mannheimer, much of it not complimentary

Dr. Fritz Mannheimer (19 September 1890 – 9 August 1939)

Fritz, the son of Lili (nee Frankel) and Max Mannheimer, a wine merchant, was born in Stuttgart and received a Ph.D. in law from the University of Heidelberg. At the start of WW1 he was sent to Holland, to purchase and organize the flow of raw materials and goods into Germany. He soon headed this bureau. After the War he returned to Amsterdam, where he amassed a fortune as a banker and an investor on the Stock Exchange. He became the director of the Dutch branch of the Berlin-based investment bank Mendelssohn & Co. Known as the "King of Flying Capital", he also was a grand officer of the Légion d'honneur. He became a Dutch citizen in 1936. He was the owner of the first Rolls-Royce in Holland.

At his home in Vaucresson, on 1 June 1939, Mannheimer married Marie Antoinette Jeanne Reiss (1917–2004). Born in China, she was a daughter born to Hugo Reiss, a prominent German Jewish businessman in Shanghai who served as Brazil's consul in that city, and his American-born Irish Catholic wife, Ignatia Mary Murphy. Mannheimer, who had long been obese and in ill health, suffered a heart attack during the wedding and had to be revived with two injections. The best man was Paul Reynaud, the French minister of finance and later French prime minister; the banker also was a close friend of Prime Minister Édouard Daladier.

On 9 August 1939, two months after his wedding, Mannheimer reportedly was in his Amsterdam office when he received a phone call from an unidentified party, left the office, boarded a train for France, and joined his wife at their house, where he died the same day. Contemporary observers quickly speculated on the manner of death, with many newspapers suggesting suicide; but Mannheimer's health had always been precarious, due, in part, to his excessive weight. The day after his death, Mendelssohn & Co. in Amsterdam announced that it was insolvent and that Mannheimer's collections, which were valued at more than 13 million guilders (approximately $100,000,000 today), had been largely funded on unlimited bank credit.

The entire Mendelssohn firm was forcibly liquidated by the Nazis later that same year—its assets were transferred to Deutsche Bank—and much of Mannheimer's art was purchased by Adolf Hitler in 1941, after the German invasion of the Netherlands. The lion's share of Mannheimer's collection was acquired by the Rijksmuseum in 1952 The Metropolitan Museum of Art owns one of the masterpieces of Mannheimer's collection, "Young Man Blowing Bubbles" (a.k.a. "Soap Bubbles"), a circa-1734 painting by Jean-Baptiste-Siméon Chardin.

The couple had one child, Anne France Mannheimer, later known as Annette Engelhard. She was born on 24 December 1939, six months after her parents' marriage and four months after her father's death. She took her surname from Charles W. Engelhard, Jnr, the American tycoon who became her mother's second wife. Annette later became the second wife of the American fashion designer Oscar de la Renta.

August 2011

There was one part of the 1927 family tree that I had not investigated. This was the Lower Right (South-East) where some of the family members had made the decision to settle in the German capital, Berlin. In 2011 much of Berlin's prewar documents were being scanned and placed on the Internet. This was also true of the Holocaust victims' site, here in Yad VaShem, Jerusalem. There is also a lot of information under Ancestry.com, the genealogy site. So I decided to search the web to find out what had happened to the family members who had reached Berlin. Some had died in the Shoah and some I could not find. At one stage I came to the Mannheimers. At this stage I was acquainted with the above information regarding Fritz, and I knew that his brother Victor who had died in 1928 had owned a Stradivarius violin.

The results of the search at Yad Vashem were terrible and there were records to the effect that Max Mannheimer the son of Victor and Alice (nee Frankel) Mannheimer, together with his sister Ellen Mannheimer Luss and Ellen's husband Peter Luss had been imprisoned at Westorbork Camp in Holland, from whence they had been transported to Theresienstadt on 25 February 1944. The young men were then transported to Auschwitz in September 1944 and Ellen was deported in October 1944. They were all considered to have perished. This was devastating news and I remember being very depressed.

The next day I thought that there may be general information on the Mannheimers and had an inspiration – what had happened to the Mannheimer's Stradivarius violin?

This is a photograph of the violin:

1702/03 - Small violin "King Joseph Maximilian"

Soundboard of spruce with medium grain. Back of two pieces of curly maple to medium-narrow curl, glued in a herringbone pattern with apex at the top, with branding at the nose. Ribs of curly maple to broad curl.

- Date and Place:1702/03, Cremona
- Label: Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis Faciebat anno 1720 (original)
- Length of body:34.7 cm
- Width, upper bouts:15.65 cm
- Width, center bouts:10.25 cm
- Width, lower bouts:19.5 cm

Emil Herrmann dates the instrument to circa 1685-90.

The violin had previously been in the possession of

Maximilian Joseph III of Bavaria 1745/77
King Maximilian Joseph of Bavaria 1799/1825
King Ludwig II of Bavaria 1864 and had been purchased by Victor Mannheimer in 1925. It remained in his possession until his death in 1928.

In the book How Many Strads (1945) the violin is described as being in the possession of his family in Amsterdam. Victor Mannheimer's wife and children survive the Second World War and emigrate to the United States before 1950.

The Family of Victor Mannheimer

Fritz, Alice and Victor Mannheimer with baby Max in 1919

Like his younger brother Fritz, Victor Mannheimer (1887-1928), was also a well-known collector. He owned the King Maximilian-Joseph Stradivarius violin, which was made in 1702/1703 and is now played by Austrian violinist Andreas Reiner. He also amassed a noted collection of Baroque literature.

I managed to find the family. There was an entry in Aufbau (the American German-Jewish paper) from 10 August 1945 that Ellen Mannheimer Luss had indeed survived and was in Paris. Ellen is still alive (2016) and living in Florida. I managed to contact her son Fred Luss who told me the family story.

After Victor's death in 1928, the family remained in Berlin. His wife Alice (nee Frankel but not from the Frankels of Urspringen) brought up her small children, Max and Ellen. After the Nazis came to power they left to join Fritz in Amsterdam, where Alice was the housekeeper for Fritz. Also with them was Lili, the mother of Fritz and Victor. They all became Dutch citizens.

Lili Mannheimer died in 1942. Alice, Max and Ellen were incarcerated in the infamous Nazi refugee, detention and transit camp known as Westerbork in northeastern Netherlands. Ellen's fiancé, Peter Luss requested from the Camp Commander to join Ellen in the camp. The commander agreed and Peter and Ellen were married in a Jewish wedding ceremony in Westerbork.

Alice, Max, Ellen and Peter were deported to Theresienstadt. Alice survived in Theresienstadt, but Max and Peter were deported to Auschwitz-Birkenau in September 1944 and Ellen in October 1944.

According to Fred Luss, Max and Peter were initially together in Auschwitz-Birkenau but at one stage Max decided that given the terrible conditions and murderous intents he couldn't carry on in the camp and, during the march to the place of work attempted to escape. He succeeded and perhaps because the Russians were approaching the guards did not go out of their way to stop him or search for him. However this event might have occurred during a forced "Death March" from Auschwitz to Germany.

The Red Army Liberated Auschwitz-Birkenau on 27 January 1945.

Separately Ellen and Peter made their way to Paris each assuming that their spouse had perished.

As recorded above Aufbau recorded that Ellen Luss had reached Paris. She met someone who told her that Peter Luss was alive and was also in Paris. The Lusses were thus miraculously reunited.

In Europe at this time there were millions of stateless refugees. The Lusses were also considered displaced persons and had great difficulties in finding a permanent haven. In the end they received asylum in Lima, Peru, where their two sons were born. Eventually the family moved to USA and received US citizenship in 1964.

Max Mannheimer survived the War, changed his name to Marc Maartens and settled in Michigan, USA. He became an American citizen in 1952.

Clemens Frankel

This is an article on the painter Clemens Frankel by Martin Harth of Marktheidenfeld that appeared in the Main-Echo on 27 January 2015.

I have taken the Google German-to-English translation and tried to render it into readable English.

From Urspringen to the whole World

Chronicle: Family Tree of the Jewish Frankel family with roots in the Franconian Lowlands – Many Descendants in the 19th Century

Urspringen 27 January 2015

The painter Clemens Fränkel has left posterity a unique document about his Jewish family, which came from Urspringen. In 1927 he drew a family tree, which has been preserved in imprints and with some variations in the widely ramified family. The Urspringen Synagogue Association has now discovered the historical document in an inventory of the Swiss Association for Jewish Genealogy in the municipal archives of Zurich.

When the Memorial Synagogue of Urspringen again opens its doors in May, there is a poster that will be shown with the support of the Schleunungdruck Company in Marktheidenfelderstraße. It represents the Frankel family from Urspringen in a special way.

At the foot of the Fränkel family tree, Clemens Fränkel sketched his ancestral home village of Urspringen with the former castle (left). Photos / reproductions: Harth Clemens Fränkel chose for his presentation of the pedigree in the form of a tree. Leonhard Scherg, chairperson of the Urspringen Synagogue Association, interprets this as a conscious expression of the emblematic German oak or as an old woodland linden tree. The emphatic affirmation of the family to its Lower Franconian homeland is confirmed by the sketch of Urspringen on the left under the tree. On it, the Catholic parish church of St. Mary and the Castle (which was demolished in the 1960s) are easy to recognize.

The family tree goes back to the Urspringen-born Nathan Frankel, born 1760, and his first wife Ricka from Leinach and his second wife Marianne. Nathan's immediate descendants remained mainly in their ancestral village. In the following generation the descendants begin to leave their homes.

With the growing movement of Jews, the Frankel family spreads with its many descendants in the 19th century to all over Germany. In the branches of the tree towns and cities such as Karlstadt, Würzburg, Frankfurt, Munich, Hamburg, Berlin as well as Paris, New York and St. Louis are listed.

In the 20th century only a few descendants of the family remained in Urspringen. Nevertheless, they were persecuted under the Nazi dictatorship and were deported to become the murdered victims in the extermination camps.

A far more comprehensive picture of the family history was published in Israel in a 1999 book "the Frankels of Urspringen (Volume I)" by the genealogist Martin Frankel. He previously visited the Franconian home of his family for research purposes and wants to return to Urspringen and Laudenbach this year. Frankel, who lives in Moshav Tirat Yehuda, succeeded researching two previous generations of the family (before 1760) in Urspringen to discover and identify (the earliest member of the dynasty) the Jew called Berlein (about 1680-1745).

He also attempted to identify and locate the actual family members at the present time. It became clear that there were many regrettable victims of the Holocaust from the Fränkel family. On the other hand, not a few succeeded in escaping, especially since some family members were abroad. The fragmentation of the family from Lower Franconian rural Jews into the whole world increased again. One can imagine how much suffering, fear and sadness accompanied all this.

Double grave in Laudenbach

A double grave is a memorial to two well-known Urspringener Jews, whose names can be found in the lineage of Clemens Fränkel. At the Jewish district cemetery in Laudenbach, a tombstone in the form of an obelisk recalls the double grave of Ruben Fränkel (1825-1892) and his wife Roschen (1824-1892), who came from the Rosenthal family from Homburg. This respected and successful horse trader who was active in the Jewish and political community at that time was the wealthiest citizens of Urspringen.

At a later period, the symbolic citizen and Jewish teacher Simon Kissinger (1859-1939), who had a great reputation far beyond Urspringen, also had a connection to the Fränkel family. This not-directly related ancestor of former US Secretary of State Henry Kissinger from Rödelsee married Babette Frankel (1859-1919) and took over as the Jewish teacher in Urspringen.

Of the four sons and three daughters of the couple, Fanny (born 1902) and the two Munich teachers Julius (born 1894), and Ferdinand (born 1891) were not able to reach safety in time. With their families, they became victims of the Holocaust.

Martin Harth

Background: Clemens Fränkel was killed in Auschwitz concentration camp.

Clemens Fränkel came into the world on 11 June 1872 in Frankfurt. His father, the businessman David Frankel came from Urspringen and had left his home with his family for Frankfurt. His Munich-born mother Hedwig also came from another branch of the widely ramified Urspringener Frankel family.

Clemens Fränkel, in 1898 became a student at the Munich Art Academy. When he was enrolled in the painting class of Otto Seitz, he presented himself as a freethinker and was later to be regarded as nonconformist. Frankel lived in Munich artistic circles. At this time one of his studio neighbours was the famous graphic artist Alfred Kubin.

After training Frankel was successfully employed as a painter. He traveled to Italy and led from 1908 to 1915 a school of landscape painting in Leoni Lake Starnberg. Frankel always displayed his paintings at the annual exhibitions of the Frankfurter Kunstverein and in exhibitions in the Munich Glass Palace. The Munich gallery Heinemann distributed his works. Even today his landscapes of Upper Bavaria, the Rhine-Main area and Italy are traded on the art market.

In 1929 Clemens Fränkel left for Partenkirchen and shortly afterwards moved to Ohlstadt. From 1937 he lived, after the untimely death of his wife (1930), with his son in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy. This was an escape from living under the humiliations and harassment among the national socialists. However this would soon catch up on the painter.

On January 11, 1944 Clemens Fränkel and his son Kurt were arrested in Cortina by the German gendarmerie. Kurt Fränkel survived. He lost all trace of his father Clemens after his deportation from the "Schutzhaft" in Bolzano on 16 February 1944. The late Kurt Frankel was never clear to his father's fate after 1945 owing also to a lack of cooperation and unsustainable information from the authorities.

In 2013, the Innsbruck Professor Thomas Steppan published a detailed article on the life and work of Clemens Fränkel. The art historian succeeded in revealing the fate of the painter. It turned out that from Bolzano, Frankel had been transferred to the prison of Trent. From there he was transferred to the Fossoli di Carpi in Carpi in the province of Modena.

In the original POW camp, Italian Jews had been interned. This had meanwhile been taken over by the German SS in December 1943. On February 19 and 22, 1944, the prisoners were taken to Bergen-Belsen and deported to the Auschwitz extermination camp. Clemens Frankel was most likely to have been one of the roughly 650 victims brought to Auschwitz. The Italian writer Primo Levi, who had been impounded in the same transport and survived, reported in his recollections of the selection at the ramp in Auschwitz that 95 men and 29 women had survived this selection. The name of Clemens Fränkel is not in the store's books, so that the 26th February 1944 is to be considered as his date of death in the gas chambers of Auschwitz.

Letter from Hiltrud Frankel of Urspringen recording the Flight to Freedom of Hiltrud and her mother Ida Frankel. The letter was addressed to Hiltrud's elder sister Margot and her husband Kurt Goetz. September 1940

> March 31, 1988

This is a letter written at sea on the "President Coolidge" by Mommy on her way from Germany to the United States. The letter was written to Uncle Kurt and Tante Margot.

My Dear Ones,

It is a long time since I last wrote to you and the long and arduous road is behind us. I hope you are all well, and we can soon convince ourselves of that. We mail the letter in Honolulu so you are informed of our wellbeing. We hope the letter will reach you in time. I checked and was told that the letter should be in New York at about the time that we land in San Francisco.

Now I will give you a short travelogue. With a heavy heart we left Frankfurt on August 25th, 1940 and we would be so happy here on our ship if all the dear ones could be with us. We had quite a runaround in Berlin till we were able to obtain the Russian visa. Finally on August 27th at a quarter after three in the afternoon, we received same and at 10:40 in the evening, we left Berlin from Scharlottenburg railroad station, with some acquaintances, in a first class railroad car. That was possibly the last night that we slept reasonably well. On August 28th, in the morning at ten o'clock we left the German border and at eleven o'clock we passed the Lithuanian border and arrived in Vilna at noon. There we experienced the first change of trains with all the baggage and no money. A Rumanian diplomat presented us with five marks and with that we could hire a redcap to bring us to the train into which we had to change. There we found lots of Jewish immigrants, or as we called ourselves, fellow sufferers. We were scheduled to leave Moscow via Siberian Express the next day, at five o'clock. But as Russian trains are not over punctually, we found ourselves still travelling between Vilna and Minsk at that time. At five o'clock in the afternoon, we had the Russian border control. With other words, we crossed three borders in one day. You can imagine what mood we all were in after all these border investigations. Now the question arose, will we reach the "President Coolidge" in time before she sails, as our visa would expire if we do not board in time since it was considered U.S.A. soil. And the other question was will we be able to catch the train in Moscow in which we are scheduled to leave. Three other people traveled with us who also had to reach the "President Coolidge" so at least we were not alone with our worries. We arrived in Minsk to additional disappointment. Instead of continuing directly to Moscow we were locked into a railroad sleeping car, for the night, in the station of Minsk. Of course with our best intentions no one could sleep.

The morning of August 29th, a lady picked us up at the railroad car and brought us to the hotel for breakfast and lunch. At five o'clock in the afternoon we continued via third class sleeping car to Moscow, where we arrived Friday August 30th at three o'clock in the afternoon. We were picked up by Intourist and brought via motorcar to the hotel Metropol. After completing several formalities, and a thorough cleaning which was badly needed one could partake of dinner at seven o'clock in the evening. Everybody in our company looked gleaming and clean and was looking forward to a night in bed. Which one can only properly appreciate after sitting up three or four nights in a railroad car! In Moscow it was beautiful. The youth had a good time dancing every night till three in the morning, which was something brand new for us. A class or race difference is not known in Moscow, even when you dance. And that is absolutely beautiful. On August thirty first, Intourist picked up the whole company for a site seeing tour of Moscow. Mama and I were sorry that we could not participate since it was Shabbos, and also the people who were waiting for the "President Coolidge" went to the American consulate to ask what they should do if they miss the boat and should the visa expire, which thank God did not happen. Today is the big day for our visa and I always think of the poor people who were with us at the consulate in Stuttgart, and who could not make the trip because they had no visa and who therefore sold us their tickets. On September first, at two o'clock in the afternoon our baggage was picked up and at three o'clock, we were picked up and brought via bus to the railroad station. Everything was excellently organized by Intourist. Only one thing I want to point out, whoever stays in Russia more than one day has to pay four and a half rubles per person to redeem his passport. When we arrived at the railroad station our train which was to be our home for the next eight days was ready. The baggage of all the people had already been put in its place. Most people, were deeply disappointed since they paid for first class sleeping car in Germany but only would receive a second class compartment. Our company consisted of fortyfive persons. Punctually at five o'clock in the afternoon we left Moscow. If it wouldn't have been for the good company on the train it would have been rather boring since the landscape is very uninteresting. We whiled our time away by learning English and doing some knitting. Occasionally we could dance because there was a radio in each car. Most people seemed to catch a cold in those eight days in the train. The landscape was always the same till September sixth 1940 when we traveled round Lake Baikal for eight hours. Also on that same day, we traveled through at least forty tunnels. The natives in these areas are very poor. The food on the Siberian Express was edible but greasy. The best thing was the ice cream. On Sunday September eighth in the morning at six o'clock, we arrived in Otpor, the Russian border station where we had a thorough border control. They are especially looking for books, and cameras. There you could dispose of your last rubles, if you had any. At ten o'clock we continued to Manchuli which we reached after fifteen minutes. There, we experienced the Manchurian border investigation. We expected that after passport and baggage control we could continue at noon. Sorry to say this was not the case. On that day, only fifteen persons out of our forty-five were allowed to continue. The people who had to reach the "President Coolidge" tried to explain to the station master that they have to reach the boat in time in order to not have their visa expire. However the good man did not listen to any arguments and the people just could not go on. So the people who could not continue, had to take their baggage and bring to a local hotel if you could call it that, where you could rent a room. The average cost for a room with breakfast was three yen. I can recommend the hotels Nikioschen and Tamaru, especially the latter in which one can sleep Japanese style, which is fantastic. Other people who have to leave Germany via this route should not stay in the Hotel Astoria where we stayed. I am sorry to say, in Manchuli was the first time where we had to change dollars. The people who lived in the Hotel Tamara were taken care of by the local Jewish community. Everybody must register in the hotel and the owner sends the list to Harbin where they make out the bill. Towards the evening there is a plague of gnats, and you can't leave your room to go to the street until after it rains which eliminates that evil. On September ninth at twelve forty in the afternoon we 1eft Manchuli in a beautiful sleeping car. This time we traveled first class. Large bright and most beautifully c1ean cars, in opposition to what we had in Russia. Everyone who travels first class is issued a set of slippers. People with money could eat on the train. Others could take the chits from the Siberian Express and for same could buy provisions for the trip through Manchuria. In the evening they convert the seats to beds. A fantastic invention, in Germany we did not know this. On the tenth of September at two o'clock in the afternoon, we reached Harbin where four gentlemen from the Jewish committee picked us up and took us with our baggage after helping us through the necessary formalities, to their homes. Always four people were taken to homes via taxi. There we were given tea, soup and a good meal. Everyone's case was discussed and these people took wonderfully care of all that had to be done. For the first time the big group of forty people were split up. The people who were destined for Shanghai left ten minutes after ten o'clock in the evening. And those destined for North and South America left at ten twenty in the evening. The trip continued through the night till we reached Hinsin at seven o'clock in the morning, September 11th. There we had one hour time to change trains for Fusan. (Fusan is called Pusan today.) In the evening at seven o'clock we arrived at the border station of Antung for passport and baggage control of Manchuria. Whoever had Manchurian yen now had to exchange these for Korean yen. This all had to be done within a half an hour and then the trip continued to Fusan. The landscape on this day was gorgeous, small brooks and rivers and mountains and we passed through at least thirty-five to forty-five tunnels. On September 12th at eleven in the morning we arrived in Fusan. There we had to exchange our Korean yen into Japanese yen. The boat, due to over load, could only take the passengers to the "President Coolidge". All others had to remain behind till the next boat left in the evening. The sea was very rough since the day before they had had a typhoon and eighty percent of the passengers were seasick, which was very unpleasant. At seven o'clock in the evening we arrived in Schimonsekie and after the formalities were completed, we could not disembark till ten o'clock in the evening. There we had a hard time to make ourselves understood, in spite of our English. We finally reached the train to Kobe at 11:00 PM. Hopefully we do not have to change trains anymore because it is all so difficult, especially with a lot of baggage. We were worried if we would reach our ship which was scheduled to leave on September 11th. In the morning of September 13th at nine o'clock we arrive in Kobe, where some gentlemen from the Jewish Committee picked us up. Naturally the first question we asked was is the "President Coolidge" still here? And after they acknowledged this, we were ever so happy. Now we were taken from the railroad station to a home where many of our acquaintances from Frankfurt were waiting for us. We will tell you about our boat ride ourselves when we see you. Please write immediately to Oma in Frankfurt that we are all right and happy. Please also write to the bank in Harbin and ask them to return your money. Since we were changing our money to yen and not to dollars and since we could not change it back, we did not use any money on the ship. We did not bother taking the money from the bank in Harbin since the committee there recommended not to take along. Maybe they have returned it to you already.

We will let you know more when we arrive in San Francisco. Please save this letter and if you have time, maybe you can make 5 copies on the typewriter. Then we can send copies of it to Germany. Up to now, we have not been seasick and hope not to get seasick.

Stay well and I greet you and kiss you.

Yours Hiltrud

Dr. Walter K Frankel being cross examined by Manning D Webster during trial in Manila, Philippines for World War II crimes.

Dr. Walter K Frankel testifying during the trial of Gen. Tomoyuku Yamashita (Japanese commander in the Philippines in 1944 and 1945) for war crimes in Manila, Philippines after World War II. Prosecutors and officers in a court room. Maps on a wall. Dr. Walter K Frankel is called to the stand and cross examined by Captain Manning D Webster, assistant prosecutor. The doctor describes how four families and his own were herded into a house. Furniture was stacked around them, a grenade thrown at them and the furniture ignited with gasoline. Four of the women cried out and were shot in the head by the Japanese soldiers. Location: Manila Philippines. Date: November 2, 1945.

Yamashita was subsequently hanged in 1946.

Previously, in February 1945 after the American Forces had conquered Manila, Dr. Walter K. Frankel gave evidence regarding the behaviour of the Japanese Army in Manilla. This was one case of many reported to the American Army regarding atrocities in the Philippines.

This is a preliminary report.

Statement by Dr. Walter K. Frankel in connection with the massacre of sixteen persons at Pax Court, 176 Belagtas, Pasay, Manila, P.I., 12 February 1945.

Victim, a German Jew, together with 19 other persons including men, women and children, were herded into a room surrounded by gasoline-saturated furniture which was ignited. Those attempting to escape were shot. Victim, his sister, and only one other individual survived.

AFFIDAVIT

Pax Court, 176 Belagtas

The undersigned, Dr. Walter K. Frankel, having been first duly cautioned and sworn, deposes and says:

The murder of 16 people happened Monday February 12, 1945, in the afternoon around 4:15 to 4:30. The place has been Pax Court, 176 Belagtas, Pasay. My report is based on my own terrible experience, together with 19 persons. Only my sister, a chemist, and I escaped. My name is Dr. Walter K. Frankel, 55 years old, living in Manila since February 20, 1939. I am a surgeon, urologist, and lecturer of History of Medicine in the College of Medicine. University of the Philippines

Medicine, University of the Philippines.

On Monday, February 12, around 4:15 p.m., my wife, sister, Mrs. Alice Stahl, married to an American who is in the Los-Banos Camp, and I were sitting at our coffee table when a Japanese sergeant knocked at the door. I showed him my paper, a pass at one side in English and in the other side in Japanese. He said, "Judasi", and brought me out of the house, leading my wife and sister also. I saw that the Japanese brought the people out of the other houses. The Court consists of four double houses, one side 165-A,B,C, and D, and the other side 176-A,B,C, and D, Belagtas St., Passy. All the people were driven out together by nearly fourteen or sixteen Navy personnel, three of them being officers, some with guns, some with spears, some very young. Without saying a word, our hands were bound behind our backs. There were six Europeans, my wife, Gisela Frankel, myself, Dr. Frankel, my sister Alice Stahl, Dr. H. A. Luerse, his wife, Gertrude Luerse, the daughter, Jutta, 8 years, and thirteen Filipinos, namely: Justice Villareal, our landlord, his wife, Mrs. Villareal, two little nieces, Pacita, 7 years, Maria, 8 years, the house-girl of Dr. Luerse, Valeria; the others being servants of the other houses, three women with five children. We were driven in the sala of Dr. Luerse's house, 165-B. The moment we were bound it became clear to me that they would murder us. So, without tears or movement, my wife and I kissed each other farewell. As we entered the house, we had to kneel down with face to the wall. Because of a broken leg I could not kneel down in this way. I was lying on my left side so I could be able to see what the Japanese were doing. In a half circle at a distance of two meters they put furniture around us, heaped cushions, pillows, strawbags on them and poured gasoline over this from bottles. Two of them did that and the third one, a sergeant who was smoking a cigar, observed their work. The two officers did not enter the sala. Calling down two men from the first floor, they, probably in unison, set the place in flames and then the sergeant took from his right breast pocket a small hand grenade and threw it, not directly in the heap of people, but more to the right side. Apparently it was the intention to burn us alive. Only Justice Villareal was killed by the grenade immediately. At this moment Mrs. Villareal jumped up crying but she was shot through the head, falling down dead. The aforementioned three Japanese soldiers were standing at the entrance to the room with guns in their hands. At this moment, my wife, lying on her left breast and on the back of my sister, came up nearer with her head and was immediately shot through the neck, dying immediately. Her blood flowed over me in streams, on my left side, over my shirt, trousers and shoes. I shall keep it forever in that condition. The next person shot dead, because she moved, was Mrs. Luerse. After some convulsions, she made no movement anymore; her husband, lying at my right, asked me, "Is my wife dead?", and as I confirmed it, he said, "Thank God,"

I was thankful in my heart that my beloved wife was spared from being burned alive. At this moment a Filipino housegirl loosened my bindings, freeing my hands. I helped her and told her to run upstairs. She came down with another girl she had managed to grasp, crying because the whole first floor was in flames. All around us smoke became unbearable. I told my sister that we had better jump outside through the flames, that it was better to be shot outside than burned alive. I helped her up, and together with Dr. Luerse and his little daughter, we jumped through the flames, expecting to be shot outside. As the smoke and heat in the sala became unbearable, the three Japanese soldiers left the room. By now the whole court was full of thick smoke. We could not be seen, so we ran to the garage immediately beside the house, where the smoke was much less. I ran into the kitchen, took a knife and cut the bindings of my three companions. Then we decided to go to the garden of the big house of our landlord, the head Justice. The house and garden are directly before our court at a distance of fifty to sixty meters, connected with a small backdoor. We were lucky enough to have arrived unseen there and to hide in an air raid shelter. My first words as we came out of the flames were, "My future life is only for vengeance at these Japanese murderers; if there would be some Japanese prisoners in the Rizal Memorial Stadium I would find our murderers out with absolute certainty."

I came out only with a small wound, also the little child, my sister, and Dr. Luerse had burns of second degree in the face, arms, legs, and feet. Suddenly at 3:00 a.m. that night, little Jut a became restless and died a few minutes later, I think by the effect of the smoke and heart weakness. I threw her into a hole in the garden of the big house and we moved to the servant's quarters behind the garage of the big house, hiding there till 4:30 in the afternoon of February 13th, when an American patrol came in and we were saved. They told us to go across the field to the ambulance about a kilometer behind. Dr. Luerse declared he was not able to walk because of his burned legs and general weakness. The soldders said they could send over a stretcher and so my sister and I walked unmolested to the ambulance. The Captain over there (Captain Jennings?) gave me the stretcher and 2 Fili-pinos. We were then going back together with another patrol of 20 men, but as we came to a distance of two-hundred meters, where we left Dr. Luerse, we were fired upon by Japanese snipers. So I went back, but I had to take shelter in an undestroyed house of Mr. Toda in Leverisa St. for half an hour. As I came back to the place of the ambulance, I found it was gone. They told me that my sister was taken by the Captain to a hospital. Soldiers took me with them to Mandaluyong. I was brought across the river on an amphibian tank to find the evacuation camp nearby. As I asked the first Filipino I met for the place of the camp he took me over to the Guerrilla headquarters in Mandaluyong, where they kept me a German Jew. After a former student had identified me as a professor of the University, they became polite and brought me to the Red Cross headquarters. Two days later I found my sister in the Quezon Institute, Ward 6, where she is confined for treatment of her infected burns. her infected burns.

This is a true and much abbreviated report of events which took place at the Pax Court, 176 Belagtas, Pasay, on Monday, February 12, 1945 in the afternoon and which I have witnessed with my own eyes and absolute clear conscience. Afterward I realized that the terrible cries we heard two hours ago from the neighboring houses of Mr. Perez-Rubio and Mr. Sy were signs of the same events in those burning houses. I believed that the fifteen people from our Court who fled for shelter in the neighboring big house of Mr. Sy were murdered in the same way. I think this group consisted of two persons of the Campos family, Spaniards, of the Arroyos five persons, of the Ocampos eight persons.

The Commandment of Circumcision (Brit Milah)

Circumcision is the removal of the foreskin of the penis. The rite of circumcision is one of the most ancient practices of Judaism. The commandment to circumcise male children was given to Abraham in the Torah and is repeated in Leviticus 12.2: "On the eighth day, the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised."

The circumcision is performed anytime between sunrise and sunset on the eighth day from when the child was born. It is a Jewish father's duty to have his son circumcised. If the eighth day is a Sabbath or festival, the circumcision must nevertheless take place. The circumcision itself comprises the cut (circumcision) and the periah (laying bare the glans) which uncovers the head of the penis.

If health complications delay the circumcision it is performed immediately after the stable health of the child is confirmed.

The tradition of naming the child at the time of circumcision is already mentioned in the Talmud.

The covenant of circumcision and the accompanying ceremony is considered as a joyous occasion and is traditionally performed with a quorum of ten men.

Ritual

Although circumcision may be performed by any Jew including a woman it is desirable that the ritual circumciser called a mohel, be a loyal adherent to the tenets of Judaism and be specially trained in the principles of medical procedures and the prevention of infection and pain and in the technique of circumcision.

The godfather is known as the Sandak. The godmother is known as the Sandeket.

In traditional practice, the child is brought from the mother by the Sandeket and is handed over to the Sandak who, in turn, hands it to the mohel. Before this, the child is welcomed by the congregation.

The mohel recites the blessing, "Blessed are You, L-rd our G-d, King of the universe, Who has sanctified us with His commandments and commanded us concerning circumcision."

The mohel places the baby on a pillow on the knees of the sandak and performs the circumcision (cut) and the periah.

The father recites the blessing, "Blessed are You, L-rd our G-d, King of the universe, Who has sanctified us with His commandments and commanded us to enter him into the Covenant of Abraham our father." Those present respond, "Just as he has entered into the Covenant, so may he enter into Torah, into marriage, and into good deeds."

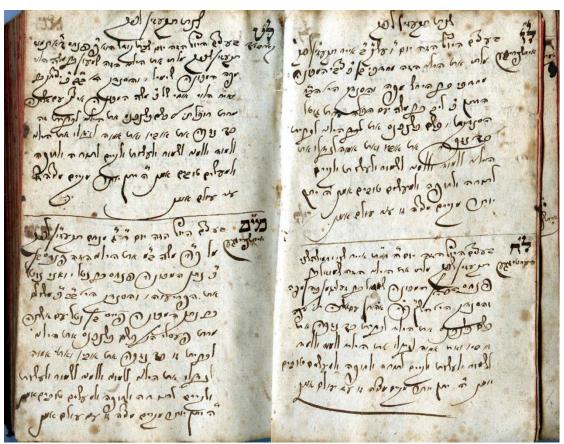

The mohel recites the blessings and names the child. The blessings are recited over a cup of wine.

The community attends a festive meal in honour of the circumcision. The meal is held in order to extend the joyous occasion. At the end of the Grace After Meals is recited, including six blessings specifically for the circumcision, bestowing good health and good wishes upon baby, parents, sandak and mohel.

The Urspringen Mohelbuch

The Urspringen Mohelbuch records some 366 circumcisions in which its author, David Isaak Adler (1784 – 1855), the participating Mohel describes the events. These circumcisions were performed between 1811 and 1855, a rate of just over eight circumcisions a year. They took place in many villages in the immediate vicinity of Urspringen but occasionally far beyond. The basic narrative is always written in Hebrew with a difficult-to-read but neatly written cursive script.

The entry is number 40 (Mem), the circumcision is in Urspringen, and the child is a member of the Frankel family. The Jewish Year is 5577 which corresponds to 1816-7.

This very day, Wednesday, the 3rd of Menachem Av (Av the Comforter) 5577 [16 July 1817], the honorable Moshe B"Y circumcised this child Pinchas the son of Nathan known as Pinchas bar Natel [Pinkus Frankel]. I performed the periah. The Sandak was the head of the household (the worthy) the honorable Meshullam bar Nathan known as Feiss ben Natel [Faust Frankel] together with his wife the lady Pessli [Besla Frankel].

Just as he has entered into the covenant, may his Father and his Mother be granted to raise the child to learn, teach, keep, perform and sustain into Torah, marriage and good deeds. Amen. May the Lord grant me to perform this commandment forever. Amen.

Most of the circumcisions in the book were performed by two circumcisers.

At the beginning of the book the Mohel Moshe B"Y who seems to have been the mentor of David Isaak Adler, was the other Mohel. I wasn't able to discover who Moshe B"Y actually was. (B"Y probably stands for ben Itzhak (son of Isaak) or Ben Yakov (son of Jakob) or ben Yosef (son of Josef).

Occasionally other circumcisers are mentioned such as Moses Faust (Frankel) or Shlomo (Salomon) of Laudenbach.

There was a period from 1817 to 1828 when David Adler performed the circumcisions on his own. After 1828, most of the circumcisions were performed together with his friend the worthy Aron ben Nathan Frankel. It should be pointed out that both Aron Frankel and David Adler were both learned but also well-to-do men of the world and leaders of the Jewish Community.

The example given above is a simple entry without complications. However sometimes other issues arise; health issues, procedures in irregular circumstances, and personal circumstances.

Health issues occur when the child was clearly not well on the eighth day. In extreme cases a child would be taken to a doctor. David Adler states the occasions when the child was weakly or had temperature or body rashes and then the ceremony would be postponed until the child regained its health. In one case the circumcision took place almost four months after birth and then only after the doctor had given permission.

When there are problems regarding irregular features of the penis, and what procedures are to be taken, David Adler's Hebrew is insufficient to describe the events and he then writes in Yiddish. We haven't yet given out the Yiddish texts to an expert but this will be our next step. There were also cases of children being born naturally circumcised and in these cases David Adler follows the procedures from the classic text on Jewish circumcision namely "Sharvit Hazahav" (the Golden Sceptre, published in Amsterdam in 1694) by Rabbi David ben Arie Leib of Lida, who was Rabbi in Mainz and subsequently head of Ashkenazi Rabbinical Court of Amsterdam. There were also cases when the child had been circumcised by a previous circumciser, but complications arose and the circumcision was later deemed to be invalid. In such cases famous rabbis would be consulted and the unfortunate child would have to be be circumcised for a second time.

Personal cases include the circumcision of the orphan child, Joel the son of the late Joel, who died before his son was born. In this case the members of the Holy Community of Urspringen took it upon themselves to pay for the upkeep of both the mother and also the child. There were several similar cases of children losing their fathers before they were born.

Other cases are of sons born to unmarried mothers. There were cases when the Sandak did not arrive in time or when, in the isolated communities there was no quorum of ten men. And of course circumcisions were performed not only on the Sabbath but also on festivals and even on Yom Kippur.

Ronit Frankel is deciphering the text and Martin Frankel is translating the material from Hebrew into English. They also convert the dates from the Hebrew Calendar to the Gregorian dates. In addition they try to identify the villages recorded in the narrative. This is sometimes very difficult especially if the Sandak comes from a remote area outside Lower Franconia. In the case of the Frankel family they are able to recognise the child, his parents and godparents and name them as they were known in Urspringen. They then export the files to Dr. Leonhard Scherg and he translates the English into German.

If the village where the circumcision took place falls within the area covered by the Wurzburg Archives then usually Dr. Scherg is able to identify many of the children as he knows both the village and the date of birth, which is a week before a regular circumcision. In other cases such an identification may be impossible.

Franconian Friends

Dr. Leonhard and Dr. Christiane Scherg

Christiane is a paediatrician and Leonhard an historian and the former mayor of Marktheidenfeld. The photos are from May 2015.

Christiane, Leonhard and Me

Dr. L. Scherg helping us in researching eighteenth century manuscripts at the Castell Archives

Dr. Scherg taking us to see the highlights of Wurzburg. Here we are in the garden of the Residence.

A rare relaxed moment in Wurzburg

Our contact with Dr. Leonhard Scherg was due to a series of fortunate coincidences in 1995. It seemed that he was heaven-sent. We would never have had access to the sources, the knowledge and the information in these books without him. From the first, when he heard about our interest in our family roots he immediately volunteered to help us and granted us his valuable time, resources and expertise so generously that it is difficult to find enough words to express our gratitude. Christiane came into the picture on our first visit to Franconia in 1996. We met them several times including one evening sparkling with flowing conversation and good food and we became long-standing friends.

Our friendship extends over twenty years. In 1998 they also visited us in Israel.

They both have a tendency not to speak of their achievements or about their public activities. That is why I needed Martin Harth's article and Dr. Google's information to complete the narrative.

Leonhard is an honorary citizen of Marktheidenfeld, the highest award that the Lower Franconian town of Marktheidenfeld can bestow.

Crest of Marktheidenfeld

He was mayor of Marktheidenfeld for 24 years from 1984 - 2008 and from 1990 to 2008 served as a district councillor.

The journalist Martin Harth wrote an article on 15 July 2014 for Leonhard's 70th birthday in the regional Main Post newspaper. Here are excerpts from that article together with our impressions and experiences.

Leonhard Scherg comes from Reistenhausen, in Lower Franconia and grew up there in the house of his mother and his grandparents. His father died in action, a few months before the birth of his son, on the eastern front of the Second World War. After graduation and the second state examination for the Lehramt at grammar schools in the fields of history, German and social studies, Scherg wrote his doctoral thesis on the nearby monastery in Bronnbach.

In 1971 he married the doctor Christiane Zeisner from Schwabach. The couple have three sons. In 1978 Christiane founded her doctor's practice in Marktheidenfeld. In 1973, her husband had already come to the Balthasar-Neumann-Gymnasium in Marktheidenfeld and soon the young teacher made a name for himself as a committed district council administrator.

Scherg's election to the mayor of the city of Marktheidenfeld in 1984 was a surprise. According to Scherg, even though he had never previously belonged to a municipal body, running a municipality was not alien to him. His great-grandfather had been mayor in Reistenhausen, and municipal affairs had been part of the daily conversation in the very conservative household of his grandfather.

The fact that he had been very familiar with Marktheidenfeld before his election from a historical point of view, together with the support of political colleagues and the city administration helped him in the exercise of his office.

24 years mayor

For four elective periods, until 2008, Scherg remained Mayor and with only one exception he was re-elected unopposed. From 1990 to 2008 he belonged to the Main-Spessart district council. Later, he headed the Marktheidenfeld Water Authority and temporarily belonged to no less than four school associations. On retirement, his town awarded him the honorary title of mayor and honorary citizen.

(My notes: On our first visit to Franconia when Leonhard was Mayor he freed his morning to take us to the Castell Archives. However before we left he felt he had to see the progress of the road works in Marktheidenfeld. We were very impressed by the way he interacted with the labourers, speaking eye-to-eye with them, and their reactions showed us how much they respected and admired him.)

...

One thing, however, had been important to him beyond all personal goals: he had at the beginning of his mayoralty experienced a sharp confrontation regarding the annual SS meeting in Marktheidenfeld. (My notes: Previously the Marktheidenfeld administration had allowed and supported financially a yearly meeting of the notorious German Army units that had rounded up the Jews of Greece and the Balkans and sent them to Auschwitz. To his everlasting credit, Dr. Scherg had cancelled this activity!). That is why co-operation with the city council had always been particularly important to him. From then on he wanted to pursue his goals harmoniously, or at least with the greatest possible majorities.

(My notes: On top of his commitment to his work he found time to renovate the old Urspringen Synagogue and to turn it into a memorial museum for the destroyed community. It was very moving for us to see how much he was emotionally involved in the attempts to find and collect Jewish artefacts and relevant manuscripts and to investigate them with his typical seriousness and depth, and turn this village synagogue into a very respectful and emotional memorial.

On our second visit he showed us the Urspringen Mohelbuch of David Isaak Adler dating from the first half of the nineteenth century. He had purchased this item via the Internet from a dealer in Judaica in Strasbourg on behalf of the Urspringen Synagogue Committee. He suggested that perhaps we would take on the task of deciphering and translating the book and perhaps unknowingly he launched us into a great adventure of discovering another aspect of Jewish life in the rural communities of Franconia including that of my family. Although we have not yet completed this task, Leonhard has already invested a tremendous effort in processing, analysing and publishing the unfolding information.)

He did not get bored in his retirement. As district archivist, he contributes to the organization of municipal archives. As the president of the Volkshochschule (Community College) he continues the cultural direction of the city. He himself gives lectures and, together with the City Archives, gives courses on family research or the deciphering of old writings. At the head of the Urspringen Synagogue Project Committee, the historian explores the history of Jewish families from the region.

Every meeting with Leonhard leaves us amazed by his endless energy and range of his activities. It seems as if he succeeds to accomplish in one day what we would hope to accomplish in a week or more. Every conversation with him is stimulating and enriching in so many ways and we can only wish him and Christiane good health to enable them to continue in the same way.

Martin and Valentina Harth

Martin Harth is a freelance journalist and Third Mayor of Marktheidenfeld. He represents the Social Democratic Party (SDP) on the municipal council. We first met Martin in 1996 when he covered our visit to Lower Franconia. At that time he invited us to his home and told us about his extensive research on the persecution of Jews in the area in general including Urspringen in the 1930s and 1940s and on the trials of the perpertrators that took place after the war. What we heard was very painful: we understood that the pogrom in Urspringen started at the house that had once been the residence of my greatgrandfather Salomon Frankel. At that time Ida Frankel was alone in the house and we could easily imagine her horror at what was taking place. The Jews of Urspringen were in the middle of a huge wave of hatred and in most of the cases there was only a tragic end. Martin Harth's researches showed how the perpetrators of the horrors were not always punished for their crimes. We were deeply moved by his personal involvement in this important project that he took upon himself. He knew the details of all the participants in those events. He impressed us by taking upon himself the responsibility of documenting and commemorating the terrible events. In these days of Holocaust denial we really appreciate and value his activities.

Since then Martin Harth married and on our second visit we met his delightful wife Valentina. She is a native of Ust-Nera in Siberia, who settled in Lower Franconia in 2003. A gifted cartoonist and graphic artist, she has worked for Russian periodicals and newspapers as well as being involved with advertising and web design. Also portraits, logo and poster design for public initiatives and events. Her works have been exhibited in Omsk, Siena, Frankfurt and Marktheidenfeld.

Valentina Harth

We spent an evening with both of them in Marktheidenfeld. We enjoyed the opportunity to speak to open-minded and liberal people with so many interests and with a strong social commitment.

Among Martin Harth's publications that were relevant to us, I found:

Juden im Landkreis Marktheidenfeld 1993 Leonhard Scherg and Martin Harth

http://www.alemannia-judaica.de/marktheidenfeld_synagoge.htm He also reported on

- the discovery and purchase of the Urspringen Mohelbuch
- the life and death of Clemens Frankel
- the discovery of an original copy of the Frankel family in the municipal archives of Zurich (he might have been involved in the discovery?)
- the seventieth birthday of Leonhard Scherg.

George Schnabel

Georg Schnabel is the volunteer caretaker of the ancient Jewish cemetery of Laudenbach. Since about 1600, some 4,000 Jews have found their last resting place in Laudenbach. In January 1942, the last burial took place. Georg Schnabel has many contacts in the whole world to relatives of the Jews buried here and has been committed to the care of this cemetery for more than 30 years.

I first had contact with Georg Schnabel in 1995, when on Dr. Scherg's request, he sent me a number of photographs of the cemetery and which included my grandparents' graves. However we hadn't met each other until May 2015. He received us at the entrance to the cemetery with a warm smile and a great willingness to help us in any way. It was amazing to discover that, although Mr. Schnabel does not read Hebrew he could easily point out many of the graves by name and period of burial. We were impressed by his emotional involvement and efforts to preserve this historic, and for us, unique site, where my father's ancestors rest.

Ronit Frankel at Laudenbach Cemetery – May 2015

I wish to thank my wonderful wife Ronit for her love and support and intellectual energy in our mutual research projects.

The Following Index Report is taken from the Frankel-Dillenberger-Adler Genealogy database which I manage using my Legacy 8.0 de Luxe Genealogy software as it was in on 23 July 2017.

The Report is sorted by Name: Surname, Given Name Date of Birth Birth Place Reference.

The Reference for the basic (00) family is of the form:

00.mn

where m is the generation number (Berlein is generation 1, and m may be 1,2,3,4, 5) and n is a letter (a-z, A-Z) and is the individual referred to in the narrative.

These are the references in Volume 1.

If the reference number is followed by a + this means that the individual as probably a child who died young or an individual who has disappeared without trace.

The Reference for the branch families is of the form where ppp is the branch number (01 - 103) and m is the generation number (6 - 11) again Berlein being generation 1. These are the references in Volume 2.

The references B.m refer to the descendants of Benedikt the son of Berlein and again m is the generation number.

Where there is no reference this means that the individual is in the database and was probably very close to the Frankel and Dillenberger families such as in-laws but was/is not directly related.
